Army Of Men Now Gaining Control Of Many Forest Fires

Progress Made in Controlling Flames in Widely-separated Sections of Canada and the United States

FIRE FIGHTERS LOSE LIVES

Canadian Press
An army of men fighting forest fires in widely-separated parts of Canada and in seven of the United States, reported progress against the flames today.

A score of forest fires, six of them major, were reported in southwestern Alberta.

The ranch owned by King Edward VIII, southwest of Calgary, was out of immediate danger, with flames still nine miles away.

The damage was most extensive in the north woods of Minnesota and Wisconsin, but forestry officials regarded the crisis as past and hoped for fulfillment of a "possible showers" weather forecast.

Authorities in Minnesota and Wisconsin estimated a total of 23,000 men—CCC boys, federal and state workers and a horde of volunteers—were on the front in those states, and hundreds of others struggled with uncounted fires in Michigan, Idaho, Washington, Wyoming and California.

THIRD DEATH
The third death blamed directly on forest fires occurred yesterday near Hazzington, Wash., when Bert Zink, fifty-three, was crushed by a large tree while fighting a small blaze. In Sparta, Wis., sixteen-year-old Lester Brundum was answering a call for firemen when he fell dead with a heart attack. Twelve persons were injured in a head-on automobile collision last night on a smoky road near Bennett, Wis.

After an airplane inspection tour, A. N. Cockrell, assistant forest supervisor at Sandpoint, Idaho, reported fires burning over a thirty-mile area in the region of the Idaho-Canadian boundary.

Nominations filed in Rupert's land, also deferred, were not available owing to difficult communications.

In the general elections of July 27, the Liberal-Progressives won twenty-two of the fifty-three seats, Conservatives sixteen, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation six, Social Credit five, Independents three and Communist one.

TWO PINNED UNDER TRUCK

N. W. Irving and F. Crystal Have Close Call in Auto Crash

Norman William Irving, 717 London Street, and Frank Crystal, Admirals Road, narrowly escaped serious injury in an accident in Esquimalt this morning when they were pinned beneath their light delivery truck when it was catapulted from the middle of the road into a ditch.

The accident occurred about 8.50 o'clock at the corner of Peters and Loyal Streets.

According to Esquimalt police the truck in which the young men were driving was in an almost head-on collision with a car driven by Alfred G. Page, forty-first Avenue, East, Vancouver.

The truck, driven by Irving, was traveling east on Loyal Street and the Page car was going north on Peters Street.

Both youths were removed to the military hospital at Work Point Barracks by Capt. Luckey, R.C.A.M.C., where their superficial wounds were treated. Police reported it was not necessary to detain them at hospital.

KING SAILING OFF DALMATIA

Duke and Duchess of Kent on Way to Join Yacht Nahlia

Associated Press
Sibenik, Yugoslavia, Aug. 11.—King Edward VIII turned his nautical vacation into a vagabond cruise today. The only persons who knew the royal orders were the captain of the yacht Nahlia, aboard which the King and his guests steamed away along the Dalmatian coast yesterday, and a few officials ashore and at London.

But the general impression was that the orders did not mean a great deal and the King would change them from day to day as his fancy pleased.

The yacht was anchored last night in the harbor of Tsjer, fishing port on Dugi, the day had been spent cruising among the islands.

Kammer, Austria, Aug. 11.—The Duke and Duchess of Kent arrived here today for a visit before joining the yachting party of King Edward aboard the Nahlia, now off the Dalmatian coast.

Art Chapman, Victoria, Is High Scorer With Nine Points in Olympic Victory By 27 to 7 Count; Canadians Favored to Gain Final

Canadian Press
Berlin, Aug. 11.—Canada's Olympic basketball team overwhelmed Switzerland 27 to 7 in a third-round match today and seemed assured of advancing to Friday's final.

Either the mighty United States team or the speedy Japanese squad is expected to gain the last round in the other bracket.

The Canadians turned in the best display of systematic passing yet seen on the Olympic outdoor courts to score easily over Switzerland. Their defense also was rugged and the Europeans were held to two field goals.

After leading at half-time 13 to 1, the team drawn from the Windsor Forth club and reinforced with a few stars from Vancouver and Victoria, became somewhat careless. Yet the outclassed Swiss basketweavers had only four scoring chances from the field during the game.

Automobile Turned Over, Two Persons Injured

The light delivery truck shown above was wrecked this morning when it overturned after a head-on collision at Peters and Loyal Streets, pinning its occupants, Norman William Irving, London Street, and Frank Crystal, Admirals Road, underneath. They were removed to the military hospital at Work Point Barracks after escaping with only superficial injuries.

ASSAILS PACT WITH CANADA

Roosevelt Best Friend This Country Ever Had, Says Hamilton in Seattle

Associated Press
Seattle, Aug. 11.—Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton prepared to enter Oregon today after launching the party's campaign in Washington State here last night.

In his address before his Washington colleagues, Hamilton accused the Democratic Party of forcing taxpayers to finance party campaign propaganda through works progress administration "news reels."

Hamilton assailed the new deal's tax programme, and said "President Roosevelt has mortgaged the future earnings of every child in the country."

He referred to the taxpayer as the "forgotten man of the Roosevelt administration."

He assailed the reciprocal trade treaty with Canada, citing agriculture, livestock and lumbering as "victims of a policy of foreign treaties in direct violation of the constitution."

"Roosevelt is the best president Canada ever had," he said.

France Adopts Munitions Bill

Nationalization of War Industry Ratified By Chamber of Deputies

Canadian Press from Havas
Paris, Aug. 11.—The Chamber of Deputies today adopted without debate the government bill, as modified by the Senate, for nationalization of the French munitions industry. The bill will be returned to the Senate for final approval.

The extent of nationalization of individual factories will be governed by the proportion of production of war materials to total output. Expropriated factories will be re-compensated by the government. Senate amendments set back the date by which nationalization must be completed to March 31, 1937.

Ribbentrop Goes To London Post

Hitler's Personal Emissary Appointed as German Ambassador to Great Britain; Was Former Champagne Salesman

Associated Press
Berlin, Aug. 11.—Joachim von Ribbentrop, Chancellor Hitler's personal emissary on many important diplomatic missions, today was appointed German ambassador to London.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, appointed ambassador to Great Britain today, considered the world's prize diplomatic post, is a former champagne salesman.

Only last April his appointment to a high rank in the "S.S." or black-shirted Nazi guard troops, by Chancellor Hitler, was looked upon as a new indication of the Nazi leader's faith in him.

The rank of ambassador-at-large with special duties subsequently was given to Von Ribbentrop and as such he has had much to do during negotiation for cementing of relations between the Reich and Great Britain.

Tall, with a thin face and wavy hair, Von Ribbentrop before the Great War was popular in society in Ottawa.

Timber Contract Still Indefinite

Legal Opinions Heard on Sogke Lake Transaction; Mayor Leeming and Ald. A. McGavin Say Council Acted on Solicitors' Advice; Second Letter Too Late; Deal Involves $150,000

After hearing half a dozen legal opinions on the matter and after considerable discussion over those points of view, the City Council today still waited further word from its city solicitor to see where it stood on the Sogke Lake watershed timber contract between the water commissioner and the Garrison timber interests.

A move to have H. S. Fringie, city solicitor, prepare the necessary documents to have the city's special act changed to validate the contract at the last session of the Legislature was shelved. In its place the council decided to table all documents until Mr. Fringie, at present on vacation, brought in his opinion on the deal. Should he declare it valid, logging operations will proceed. LIGHT LIST FOR FALL SESSION

Government Approaches Legislative Prospects; Municipal Problem Main Item

Advance signals for the fall session of the Provincial Legislature have been hung out at the Legislative Buildings.

Premier Pattullo indicated today the Cabinet had discussed in preliminary fashion its legislative prospects for the next meeting of the House and ministers had been advised to start lining up for the session.

"We expect a fairly light budget this session," the Premier said. "The main purpose, of course, will be to deal with the municipal problem. No. 1 cannot say yet what will be done in that regard."

It has not been decided when the House will be called.

Mr. Hart is expected to present his 1937-38 budget and preliminary work on the estimates has started.

Previously a new provincial sales tax to raise funds for municipal treasuries was suggested but this is not considered seriously. Now following the increase in the federal sales tax this year and the failure of the Ottawa authorities to agree to provincial collection of the levy as an indirect tax.

The legal experts of the province say a sales tax could be collected by means of tokens or other methods of direct collection, but this is regarded as an unpopular method of taxing and only likely to be followed here as a last resort.

Plans Complete For Reception

General Public Invited to Meet Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir

Arrangements for the public reception in honor of Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir on Saturday at the Legislative Buildings were announced by the Provincial Government today.

His Excellency, said the Provincial Secretary's Department, has expressed a wish to meet as many members of the public of Victoria and vicinity as possible during his visit.

Those attending the reception will be presented to Their Excellencies. This will be the only opportunity for the general public to meet Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir, and the suggestion was made officially that members of organizations should arrange to attend together.

The reception is timed for 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon in the Assembly Chamber.

Guests will enter the Legislative Buildings by the east door near the museum. At a point near that entrance hats, etc., may be checked. Guests will then proceed up the stairs along the Attorney-General's corridor, past the rotunda, and will enter the chamber by the northeast door, and passing down the side

In regard to Gibraltar harbor, a British possession, the measures taken, it is intimated, consist of appeals both to the Spanish government and the insurgents to respect British lives and property.

The printing is understood to be under way in Calgary, where the government's property certificates, registration forms and covenants were turned out. The forms and covenants must be signed by citizens before they receive the dividends.

The certificates will be in book form, similar to cheque books now issued by chartered banks, the officials said.

Parties Square Away For Quebec Fight

Contest For Seats By Liberals And New Coalition Party

207 Candidates Offer Themselves For Election to Quebec Provincial Assembly at Next Monday's Poll; Liberal Nominees Missing in But Two Constituencies

Quebec, Aug. 11.—Union Nationale, coalition of Conservatives and former Action Libérale Nationale supporters, yesterday nominated a candidate for each of ninety Quebec legislative seats to be filled in the provincial election, August 17.

An official nomination closed the Liberal Government nominated eighty-eight candidates. Returning officers reported a total of 207 candidates for election to the Legislative Assembly next Monday filed qualification papers and made the required deposit of $500.

Liberal nominees were missing in only two constituencies. Where candidates opposing the Union Nationale were considered friendly to Premier Adélard Godbout's government.

In sixty-six seats the election has resolved into a straight party fight between Union Nationale and Liberal candidates. In this category fall seats of the two leaders.

INDEPENDENTS
A feature of the final contest as revealed by nomination papers was the number of independent Liberal and independent Union Nationale candidates, complications of the issue for the official nominees of those two parties.

Independent Liberals numbered thirteen, independent Union Nationale candidates four, and three plain "independents." There are three Communists in the running, one Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate, one representative of the Labor Party and one candidate who describes himself as people's candidate.

Wholesale defection of former Action Libérale Nationale members of the House was apparent. When Paul Gouin took his place in the assembly after the election of November 23, 1935, he had twenty-five followers in the House allied with Maurice Duplessis and fifteen Conservatives as a united opposition against Hon. L. A. Taschereau, then premier, with forty-six supporters. In June he announced Action Libérale Nationale would not contest the election.

Today, twenty-two formally declared their intention of continuing with Mr. Duplessis by filing nomination papers as Union Nationale candidates. Fred Monk, Vital Cléche and W. E. Laurault also remained aloof from the Duplessis coalition.

Mr. Gouin after his break with his former co-leader of the Opposition decided not to run himself. Mr. Cléche offered himself as independent Liberal candidate in Beauport against Joseph Paquet, Liberal, and Dr. Raoul Proulx, Union Nationale.

TRIBUTE TO DEAD MINERS

Collieries Will Stop Work in Great Britain Thursday

Canadian Press
Barnsley, Yorkshire, Aug. 11.—Work will cease in all collieries of Great Britain August 13 as a tribute to the memory of the fifty-seven victims of the Wharfedale Woodmoor colliery disaster. It was announced today.

Jones stated that a united memorial service would be held in the town hall of Barnsley, Thursday afternoon, at which relatives of the victims would be present. It was suggested that similar memorial services should be held in mining districts throughout the country, he said.

Major Slice Of Fortune Is Taken

$80,000,000 Left By the Late Col. Edward Green Subject to $53,000,000 U.S. Tax Levy

Associated Press
Washington, Aug. 11.—Treasury tax experts estimated unofficially that if the entire estate of Col. Edward H. R. Green, estimated at $80,000,000, is subject to federal estate taxes the levy will be more than $53,000,000.

Kaufman, Texas, Aug. 11 (Associated Press).—Mrs. Mabel H. Green, widow by the recent death of Col. Edward H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green, America's noted "railroad queen," yesterday was named administratrix of her husband's vast fortune, once indirectly denied her by terms of a will.

County Judge Ben Brooks, thirty-one-year-old jurist, granted a motion making permanent her temporary appointment as administratrix of Col. Green's estimated $80,000,000 estate, largely inherited from his mother and enriched by his own railroad earnings.

Twenty-five years ago Hetty Green drew a will and bequeathed a fortune of nearly $67,000,000 to her son, Colonel Green, and a daughter, now Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks of New York. She stipulated that neither her son's wife nor her daughter's husband could inherit the estate.

Colonel Green's will, dated in March, 1908, nine years before his marriage bequeathed all his property to his mother and sister. No provision was made for a wife. With the death of his mother, Colonel Green's sister, Mrs. Wilks, became sole beneficiary and executrix of his estate.

Previously in the meeting, Mayor Leeming had stated forestry and water board experts of the provincial government had regarded the selective logging of Sooke watershed as an advantageous measure both for the timber and the water supply.

Alderman McGavin dealt briefly with the various legal opinions given.

Timber Contract Still Indefinite

make the contract, he will be asked to prepare the documents seeking enabling legislation through amendment of the city's special act.

WOULD PROCEED
That action superseded a move by Alderman Andrew McGavin, chairman of the water board, to proceed with the contract. The alderman withdrew his motion, presented after he had expressed objection to "the interference by Mr. D. O. Cameron" in the matter.

Debate opened with the reading of a communication from Elliott, Maclean and Shandley, city counsel, dated May 26 dealing with the specifications for the contract for selling the timber.

No question was raised by that firm at that time over the legality of the contract, Alderman McGavin said.

A second letter from Elliott, Maclean and Shandley, dated July 30, after the city had awarded the tender for logging Sooke Lake watershed, was read, stating the city had overstepped its rights in making the contract.

MISCONCEPTIONS
Mayor Leeming explained the water commissioner and the water board had considered the previous letter merely in the light of business advice regarding the sale of the timber. He reiterated Alderman McGavin's point that the legality of the deal had not been questioned at that time.

Following the reception of the second letter, the city had taken the water board, the commissioner and others in touch with the matter three days to untangle its points, the mayor continued, saying that owing to a stenographic error, the sense of the letter was belittled.

The mayor drew attention to the suggestion by Elliott, Maclean and Shandley that the city was entering a new business by selling the timber. To his mind and to that of the water board and commissioner, the sale of timber was merely incidental, he said.

O. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, consulted in the matter, held the opinion the city water commissioner could not sell the timber, a letter from him revealed.

CONFLICTING VIEWS
R. Symes, of the firm of Robertson, Douglas & Symes, Vancouver, solicitors for Mr. Garrison, contended the disposal of timber was incidental to the water commissioner's plans to protect the watershed, and as such could be executed by contract.

E. V. Finland expressed a similar contention, as did W. J. Taylor, K.C., and A. J. Patton.

A letter from L. W. Hiberson, of Ryan, Hiberson Timber Company Limited, said the price given by Mr. Garrison for logging was a good price, but that the figure quoted on cedar poles was excessively low.

Alderman Walter Lumley remarked the lowness in price on poles would be offset to some extent by the higher costs of selective logging.

Alderman McGavin said Mr. Garrison was prepared to revise his pole price from year to year according to the fluctuation of the market.

CITY PROTECTED
G. M. Irwin, water commissioner, stated the specifications for the contract gave the city the right to determine what timber should be cut. In reply to Alderman Archie Willis, he said the city would prevent Mr. Garrison from cutting cedar poles and holding them unsold and ignoring fire and general logging. Mr. Irwin also said Mr. Garrison was so disinclined in poles he had not even cradled them on the watershed. He had disposed of his pole interests three years ago, the water commissioner added.

Selective logging of the watershed would be highly beneficial, Mr. Irwin said.

Mayor Leeming drew the council's attention to the fact the water commissioner was still up in the air over the matter.

Alderman E. A. C. Dewar asked if the plan to secure enabling legislation at the fall session of the provincial house would seriously hurt the timber interests that had signed the contract.

Alderman Willis asked how much the deal would mean to Victoria. In reply, the mayor said between $150,000 and $200,000.

McGAVIN'S STAND
"As I see it, at the last meeting of the council we were unanimous in passing the water board's recommendation," Alderman McGavin said. He traced steps, starting last spring, by the water commissioner to institute selective logging on the Sooke watershed. They had finally gained the water board's approval.

McGAVIN'S STAND
"As I see it, at the last meeting of the council we were unanimous in passing the water board's recommendation," Alderman McGavin said. He traced steps, starting last spring, by the water commissioner to institute selective logging on the Sooke watershed. They had finally gained the water board's approval.

The water commissioner had done his best in what he considered the interests of the city, Alderman McGavin said. The government had been interested originally in the scheme in view of the fact the proposal to introduce selective logging at Sooke might be regarded as an experiment to determine its values in saving the rest of the province's timber, he said.

Previously in the meeting, Mayor Leeming had stated forestry and water board experts of the provincial government had regarded the selective logging of Sooke watershed as an advantageous measure both for the timber and the water supply.

Alderman McGavin dealt briefly with the various legal opinions given.

He interpreted them to mean that if the water commissioner considered selective logging of Sooke a beneficial move for the watershed and incidental to its protection and development, he was entitled to sign the contract for that work.

STILL CONVINCED
"I'm more firmly convinced now than ever that we are justified in going ahead with the selective logging of the Sooke Lake watershed," the alderman said.

Alderman McGavin criticized the "interference" of D. O. Cameron. "I object to interference by Mr. D. O. Cameron, who is not a British subject, dictating to us who are Britishers," he said.

He would not permit Mr. Cameron's high lead logging methods, as practiced on property adjoining the city's Sooke Lake watershed, to be established on that watershed under any circumstances.

He suggested all correspondence be published in The Times and The Colonist at the city's expense to inform the public on the entire matter. The alderman's move to continue with the logging at once, seconded by Alderman Ed. Williams, was withdrawn.

Mayor Leeming presented two alternatives before the council. Either the city should confirm its contract or seek legislation to remove any question of its legality.

MUST REMOVE UNCERTAINTY
"As long as there is uncertainty, we must go about removing that uncertainty and we must wait for that until the fall session," the mayor said.

Alderman F. B. Brown brought in a motion to have the city solicitor prepare the necessary documents seeking enabling legislation to validate the contract and was seconded by Alderman Stanley Okell.

"If Mr. Pringle says the contract is all right, we'll proceed with it," Alderman Brown stated.

Alderman Lumley thought Alderman Brown's motion in effect stated that the city had "been led astray."

Alderman Archie Willis brought in an amendment to table the question for two weeks for an opinion from the city solicitor before any further steps were taken. His amendment was put and carried.

Widow Tells Of Mate's Death

"Most Terrible Moment of My Life," Says Mr. S. Rupert Saville

Associated Press
London, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Rupert Saville, wife of a retired British naval officer killed during bombardment of his yacht by a Spanish rebel ship, described the shelling today as "the most terrible moment of my life."

She told her experiences in an interview with The London Daily Mail as she recovered from leg wounds in a hospital at Saint Jean de Luz, France.

"We were sailing off Gijon when the Red batteries at the port began firing on us," she said. "We turned about toward open sea and were four miles out when we found our vessel was being fired on by the anti-Red warship Almirante Cervantes."

"We have to but the bombardment went on. Shells were crashing in the water all around me. Suddenly there was a terrific explosion. A shell had struck the commander's cabin where we were standing."

"I had a terrible glimpse of my husband being swept away from me. I was covered with blood. I jumped forward and while the members of the crew looked after my husband I took charge of the yacht."

"I steered away and reached the outer port. The next thing I remember was being tended aboard the British destroyer Comet."

Fire Destroys Insane Asylum

Over 1,000 Panic-stricken Patients Led to Safety From Burning Iowa Hospital

Associated Press
Mount Pleasant, Iowa, Aug. 11.—More than 1,000 panic-stricken patients were led to safety early today when a spectacular fire destroyed the state hospital for the insane here.

Spectators assisted in controlling the inmates as they were hurried out of the flaming structure. The townspeople looked on to form a cordon. Down this lane formed by the crowd the attendants conducted their deranged charges.

A number of patients, unable to walk, were carried from the building. Several employees, on the upper floors and clad only in night clothing, were brought to the ground on ladders.

Officials estimated the damage at almost $500,000.

SOME ESCAPED
Mt. Pleasant, Ia., Aug. 11.—Hospital authorities and highway police today sought fifteen patients, believed to have escaped last night when fire destroyed the Iowa hospital for the insane here.

None of them were believed to be dangerous.

Dr. Leonard Ristine, director of the hospital, estimated damage to buildings and equipment would total $200,000, and immediately laid plans for housing the 1,625 inmates, all of whom were safely removed from the building. The inmates were temporarily housed in Iowa Wesleyan College dormitories.

The fire, which Dr. Ristine said probably broke out in the recreation hall, destroyed the entire center section of the hospital.

More Adequate Coast Defences Urged

Native Sons Deal With Resolutions

Victoria Assembly Behind Move to Provide Greater Protection For Coastal Frontiers; Withdrawal of Canada From League of Nations Suggested

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Aug. 11.—Numerous resolutions of national interest faces the national convention of the Native Sons of Canada which began a four-day session here yesterday. The national president, R. W. Carr of Winnipeg, is presiding.

Forty-two of the 179 assemblies throughout Canada have forwarded resolutions.

Victoria Assembly No. 1 requests the national council to urge upon the federal government necessity of providing without loss of time adequate defences for the nation's coastal frontiers.

Maple Leaf Assembly No. 11 thinks Canada should withdraw from the League of Nations.

In another resolution the assembly declares that its loyalty and allegiance to the King is fervent and without reservation. "Two clauses in this resolution add: 'We claim and believe that Canada is an independent nation in no way vassal or subservient to Britain in any respect. As such she is entitled to her undivided allegiance. And we take pride in being 100 per cent Canadian. To talk of allegiance to any other nation or country is illogical and mischievous. We aim to develop and cherish a strong Canadian national consciousness and claim for Canadian sovereignty, complete independence and a glorious destiny.'

In a still further resolution submitted for consideration, this assembly recommends: "Be it resolved that the Native Sons of Canada use every reasonable means to correct and combat all influences designed to show that it is either Canada's duty or her interest to take part in any European war and also to use such reasonable means to prevent any steps being taken by Canada to engage in or carry on any such war."

CANADA'S PART IN WAR

Port Arthur Assembly suggests that before Canada enter into such a war under King Edward a plebiscite should be taken "yes" or "no" and all wealth conscripted.

Riverdale Assembly asks that the government be urged to occupy the seat reserved for Canada at the Pan-American Congress for the promotion of continental peace, goodwill and commerce.

That all governments, municipal, provincial and federal investigate pensions paid with a view to a more equitable condition in the field of employment by releasing some positions now held by pensioners receiving adequate grants is the wish of Port William Assembly. It also adds that "when writing on civil service examinations, that native-born citizens be given the same concessions as returned soldiers, namely the privilege of writing without the customary fee."

Cerise Assembly from Quebec has a plan for solving Canada's railway problem. It is: "That the federal government appoint an independent commission of three members, one French-speaking Canadian and two English-speaking Canadians. That this commission be instructed to study the causes of the deficits in the railways and suggest three methods to settle this difficult situation. That these three methods be then submitted to the people in the form of a plebiscite so that the matter may be settled once and for all. 'Example: first method: The union of the two great railroads under government supervision. Two: The sale of the Canadian National to the Canadian Pacific. Three: The acquiring of the Canadian Pacific by the federal government."

Edward Assembly suggests adoption of the design submitted at the last convention for a national flag. It also favors removal of the Senate.

Winnipeg Assembly is against any Canadian immigration scheme at present and also favors the authorization of only two languages in the public schools, English or French. It also wants compulsory naturalization of settlers in Canada.

Postpone Road Work Question

Resurfacing of Streets in Esquimalt Will Be Considered Later

The question of resurfacing various streets in the municipality was laid on the table by the Esquimalt Council last night until some time late in the year. At that time, if any funds for the purpose are available, selected streets will be resurfaced.

The council reached this decision after submission of a report by Councilor Albert Heald, chairman of the public works committee, in connection with requests for repairs to Dockyard Road.

There were fourteen streets in the municipality urgently in need of repairs, said Councilor Heald, and it would be discrimination to deal only with one.

There were no funds available for the purpose in the public works committee appropriation. He estimated 70 per cent of the cost of the repairs in question would go for materials.

Regular hands and some relief men were at present taking advantage of the weather to do some very necessary patching on various streets, Councilor Heald said.

The council also decided to defer the cutting of weeds and clearing of brush on Esquimalt streets until the first rain, when it would be possible to burn the waste on the spot without fire danger.

LIBERAL CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Victoria West Group Has Election of Officers at Monthly Gathering

The Victoria West Liberals held their regular meeting on Friday evening last.

Fred W. Watson was chosen to fill the vacant chair of president until recently occupied by the late W. E. Graham. Ernest Orchin was unanimously elected vice-president.

The meeting was well attended, about 80 per cent of members being present.

Plans for the resumption of Saturday night dances were decided upon. The club also planned to put on a country fair and entertainment at an early date.

A strong committee under the able guidance of Ernest Orchin will attend to the details of the future social activities of the club and many good events are planned for the coming season.

Fred Tooby was appointed puncher for the card games.

The weekly card game will be held tonight at 8:30 o'clock. There will be good prizes and refreshments served.

Hundreds See Big Serpent

Relative of "Caddy" Disports Himself Off Nova Scotia Coast and Many See Him

Liverpool, N.S., Aug. 11.—Nova Scotia has a sea-serpent and hundreds of bathers from Summerville Beach, near here will vouch for it.

The "reptile fish," bearing striking resemblance to British Columbia's "Caddy" and "Gogogo," and Scotland's Loch Ness monster, made its first appearance yesterday in the ocean off Summerville Beach.

It was described as "something from ten to 100 feet long, with the girth of a half-barrel and a small head carried high above the water."

Witnesses, including a number of prominent Liverpool businessmen, said the serpent traveled through the water with an undulating motion. It bobbed up and down and occasionally showed several large vertebrae. Its wake was like that of a motor boat.

When the creature was first sighted Alben Roy and a party of men gave chase in a twenty-eight-foot motor boat. They tried to head it toward shore, but the canny beast dived beneath the boat and disappeared only after it was hundreds of yards away.

At one time it headed directly across the bow of a large steam yacht, owned by Dr. J. L. Brinkley of Del Rio, Texas. Finally, after playfully leading the hunters a merry chase across the water, it tired of play and disappeared in deep water far off shore.

STUDY COMETS AND METEORS

Members of Summer Star Class Hear Talk By James Duff

Comets and "shooting stars" were the subject of a talk by James Duff, honorary president of the Victoria Branch, Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, at the weekly meeting of the summer star-study class at Victoria College yesterday evening.

The comet was once an object of fear and dread, and until explained in the last few centuries, was connected with many superstitions, Mr. Duff said.

Newton, working with Galileo's laws of motion and Descartes's newly expounded geometric principles, realized the relationship between gravity and the motion of the moon, formulated tables of the lunar orbit. It was later found that comets followed definite orbits also, with the sun as their focal point.

Some comets followed an elliptical path, returning periodically, but some swung around the sun in a parabola, flying back into stellar space never to visit the solar system again.

Peltier's comet, now leaving the earth's field of vision, was of the latter type, and would not be seen again, unlike Halley's comet, which was due late in this century.

Comets got their name from the Greek kometes, or tresses of hair, Mr. Duff explained. The name referred to the tail which follows, or sometimes precedes, a comet.

A large part of the light shown in a comet's tail was reflected light from the sun. The tail itself was made up of a faint haze, largely cyanogen gas, and an aurora caused by electrical disturbance of the molecules in the rarified atmosphere, as in a neon light.

Mr. Duff "discredited" the theory that if a comet's tail should swing near the earth people would be poisoned by the cyanogen gas, on the grounds the gas would be insufficiently dense.

Slides were shown to illustrate various orbits and types of comets and meteors. Meteors had definite orbits, and it was when the orbit of the earth intersected the path of a meteor shower that "shooting stars" were seen in large quantities, Mr. Duff said.

Miss Phoebe Riddle continued instructions in celestial geography during the evening, telling how the position of stars might be defined by declination and right ascension, using the equator and the equinoxes as bases.

Next week solar and lunar eclipses will be discussed by Wilfred R. Hobday, leader of the telescope-making section of the local society.

The meetings are open to the public, starting at 8:15 o'clock every Monday evening.

Relief Cases In Vancouver Less

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Aug. 11.—The number of relief cases in Vancouver was lower at the beginning of this month than at any other time since 1932. Relief Officer W. R. Bone announced yesterday. On August 5 there were 6,715 relief cases, 624 less than on the same date last year. With each case representing four persons the decrease amounted to approximately 2,500.

ESQUIMALT TO SEEK REDRESS

Council to Submit Resolution to Union of Canadian Municipalities

A special meeting of the Esquimalt Council will be called shortly to draft a resolution in connection with government tax-free property to be submitted to the convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities in Vancouver, August 18, 19 and 20, the council decided last night.

The reverend Reeve Alexander Lockley, who was last night provisionally appointed delegate to the convention, will communicate with Alderman J. J. McRae, Vancouver, president of the union, in connection with the chances the municipality has of getting compensation from the government.

The reeve pointed out that many resolutions had been submitted in the past by municipalities in which there were government buildings, but that the case of Esquimalt was different, in that the matter was one of large areas of land.

Councilor Albert Heald suggested that the Dominion Government Dry dock was used by the government as a commercial undertaking, and that in a test case it would probably not be supported as exempt from taxation.

Members of the council termed this resolution "The final attempt of Esquimalt to get something from the government."

TAKES FIGHT TO THE KING

Alberta League of Freedom Head Protests Signing of Social Credit Covenants

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Aug. 11.—Definitely planning to carry his fight against covenants by the Social Credit government to His Majesty, King Edward, Fred R. Surry, president of the newly-organized League of Freedom, will write a protest against signing of the covenants and mail it to Buckingham Palace, he announced. Meantime he has written to Prime Minister Mackenzie King in Ottawa protesting the covenants and seeking federal government protection.

"To Premier King he wrote: 'On behalf of eighty-five newly-enrolled anti-covenanters protesting against having to sign contracts to support the Social Credit government of Alberta, I humbly beg you will give a sympathetic and attentive consideration to the appeal for protection voiced by the Chamber of Commerce representing the citizens of Edmonton.'

"And further, to take action to stop what we believe to be the illegal processes of the Social Credit government of Alberta."

RACE FEELING IN ALABAMA

Four White Men Wounded Hunting Negro Accused of Killing Baby

Canadian Press
Anniston, Ala., Aug. 11.—Race feeling ran high today after a gun battle in which four white men were wounded while hunting a negro accused of trying to kidnap a white baby from its crib.

Shotgun fire met searchers at a negro settlement near here last night. A posse continued the hunt today for the man whose alleged abduction attempt was said to have been frustrated by the mother of the child, who struck him with a hammer.

BEAR RIPPED CAR TO SHREDS

Canadian Press
Vernon, Aug. 11.—Hector Richmond drove into town yesterday with the tattered remains of an automobile and said that a bear had ripped the machine to shreds.

The bear, apparently wanting to get inside the parked machine, ripped a hole in the roof, tore off the windshield wiper, climbed over the engine hood and finally shoved the car into a tree, crushing the bumper and crumpling a fender.

Richmond found a pole on his campsite and eventually beat the animal off.

Captain John Irving

IN HIS EIGHTY-SECOND YEAR, after a comparatively short illness, Captain John Irving, one of the most colorful figures in the shipping world on the British Columbia coast, died in Vancouver last night. Although for the last year or so the gallant skipper had lost some of his customary robustness, he carried his more than four score years and ten as if he had been a man considerably younger. His passing removes another member of that fast-dwindling band of mariners who have seen a mercantile marine of very modest beginnings in coastal waters expand to dimensions hardly considered possible as recently as the dawn of the century.

If there is anything in predestination it is hardly stretching a point to apply it to the late Captain John Irving. He was the son of a seafaring Scotsman and he was born on a sailing ship off the Oregon coast in the late fall of 1854. The name of the craft was the Robert D. Carter, owned and operated by his father, plying between San Francisco and Portland, Oregon. Thus indeed was he a true son of the sea and its lure remained with him until the end.

In another part of this issue of The Times will be found a very much fuller account of the picturesque career of Captain Irving than space would permit us to narrate here. It is fitting to note, however, that as a young man of twenty, so ably had he acquitted himself as an ordinary seaman, he was placed in command of the Ss. Onward, one of the vessels of his father's line, later taking over the operation of what then was known as the Irving Pioneer Line.

From the early seventies until the beginning of the present century the infant of the Robert D. Carter busied himself with the laying of the foundations of what was destined to become that vast Canadian Pacific Railway organization—the B.C. Coast Steamship Service. Moreover, Captain Irving's extensive experience of shipping and his outstanding executive ability found outlet on the Yukon coast, and on the rivers and lakes of the interior. Thus, in the autumn of his days, he was able to look back upon a fine service to a great industry, a career unique in the annals of sea and river navigation.

Mining, too, claimed a good deal of Captain Irving's attention. Many years ago he became interested in the mineral deposits of the Cassiar and Atlin districts, and in more recent years in those of the west coast of Vancouver Island. The provincial riding of Cassiar sent him to the British Columbia Legislature in 1894 and re-elected him in 1897. On two other occasions, 1907 and 1909, he ran unsuccessfully in the Atlin constituency.

It will be seen from this brief reference to the activities of the late Captain Irving that he was a man of many parts. In the fullest practical sense of the term a shipping expert, attracted by the potentialities of the important basic industry of mining, and a legislator with a background of invaluable experience, the old mariner who lies dead in Vancouver built for himself a reputation of which he had every right to be proud. He was the soul of kind-heartedness, intensely human, possessed of the capacity to make friends, while his genius as a raconteur enlivened any gathering of kindred minds.

John Irving, then, has gone into the calm waters of his last port. He has left behind him a record of industry, imagination, and enthusiasm which may well be emulated by those of the younger generation who want to follow a similar career and go down to the sea in ships.

"Spud Island" Smiles

CANADA'S SMALLEST PROVINCE has been called "Spud Island." We do not think it objects to the nomenclature with which it has been labelled. Why should it? Did not a dispatch from Charlottetown, the capital city of Prince Edward (Spud) Island, yesterday tell the whole of Canada in particular and the world in general that "bumper crops this year are putting farmers right back on their feet," and that "our acreage of potatoes is up 15 per cent over last year, and there will be a considerable increase in yield per acre." These are the statements of Mr. Wellington McNeill, one of the island's chief exporters, and Mr. Walter Shaw, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

Prince Edward Island's chief crops for export are potatoes, turnips, oats and hay, and those competent to judge claim there will be the largest exportable surplus in a period of twenty years. Well may smiles adorn the faces of the farmers of Canada's smallest province when its "fertile fields are filled with the richest crops in years"—while severe drought conditions have burned up arid areas in Canada and the United States, "warm rains and moderate temperatures have favored" this "million-acre farm" where extremes of climate are unknown.

Vancouver Island figuratively shakes hands with Prince Edward Island. On the extreme west of this great Dominion there are no drought conditions and no extremes of climate. "Spuds" may not be Vancouver Island's "long suit," but former Prince Edward Islanders who are among us realize that this part of Canada is making a great contribution to the nation's development—on the farm, in the mine, in the forest and in the sea.

The comforting feature about Canada—her achievements as a young country, her opportunities for her youth which lie ahead—is that only an infinitesimal fraction of the half has been told. Could we who are living today come back in a hundred years to Vancouver Island—to "Spud Island", too—we would experience something of the thrills which those of early Victorian days would experience could they emerge from their long sleep in this year of grace, 1936.

Struggle in Spain

OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD IN
The Nation calls attention to two phases of the Spanish struggle. One is the fact that the present round of fighting is only a round, no matter who wins it. If the present regime collapses, he thinks we shall undoubtedly see a terrific reaction with the usual concomitants of bloodshed, wholesale executions, concentration camps and the like and the establishment of a military dictatorship.

The other has to do with the part played in Spanish politics by its large standing army. When King Alfonso was driven out in 1931 thousands of officers were put on the retired list or dismissed outright. But they remained in Spain as forces of discontent and of hostility to those in power and have doubtless been in entire sympathy with the uprising that began in the colonies and crossed over into Spain.

If the present rulers of Spain had had time, they might have decreased the large army which Spain for generations has been carrying on African soil. The army professionals have been pro-monarchist, against the republic and now are pro-fascist. "We are plentifully supplied with money," one of their leaders, Col. de Villanueva, head of the Pamplona insurgent column, was quoted in an Associated Press dispatch the other day. This is taken to confirm the suspicion that the rebel movement was not merely a military coup, but that the militarists have powerful support from certain interests outside as well as inside the country.

"If this administration in Spain goes down," Mr. Villard wrote, "it will be simply due to the enmity among army officers for a new deal which was to have brought some hope and some economic satisfaction to the millions of underpaid and undernourished Spanish peasants and workers who have toiled for many generations for absentee landlords living in the greatest possible luxury in Madrid, or Seville, or abroad."

The Property Owner

MUCH HAS BEEN MADE OF THE increase in the number of small investors in England, at least this is what Mr. Elliott Dodds writes in The London News-Chronicler; who goes on to say that figures recently placed before the Manchester Statistical Society show "how enormous a proportion of our people is still propertyless. Of persons twenty-five years of age and over dying in 1934 only about twenty-nine out of 100 left more than £100. It is true that there has been some improvement, for in 1924 the percentage was twenty-six and before the war eighteen; but the grim fact remains that, while 1 per cent of the population own 60 per cent of the national capital, the overwhelming majority possess so little that it is not deemed worth assessing."

The trouble is, of course, that as soon as a person builds a house with the proceeds of his hard-earned savings he is taxed to the limit—and as soon as he improves his property he is considered "fair game" for another municipal "touch."

Notes

There is one advantage in adopting a child. One can always blame his ancestry.

Science has not yet made any kitchen conveniences to equal a pair of well-trained daughters.

Sound reels must make life perfect for the orator. He first has the fun of orating and then he can attend a movie and hear himself.

"Sooner or later the nation will get even with the bad citizens who, in a dangerous crisis, tried to withdraw their stakes, who filled the vaults of foreign banks with stock shares or bars of gold"—Premier Blum of France. Wealth, vulnerable and always most sensitive to political disturbances, is not restricted by immigration laws in its flights from country to country.

Reduction of taxes and expenses through elimination of waste and useless government bureaus has been promised by all politicians since time immemorial. In the current United States presidential campaign it is hard for either Governor Landon or President Roosevelt to be specific about such cuts, because most big, expensive agencies of government are sustained by pressure groups with large voting strength.

Premier Aberhart of Alberta says that if the Social Credit certificates will not carry on, "the fact will soon be known and the province will be in a better position than it would have been had it borrowed money to do various things that the government is trying to do." The fact is that in issuing the certificates the government is actually borrowing money, but without interest and without strings for repayment of the loan. In accepting a credit certificate, an Albertan actually is making a loan to his government of cash or its equivalent. More than that, because of the provision requiring the affixing of stamps to the certificate every month, the lender really is paying interest on what he has loaned.

Loose Ends

Mr. Fox has his revenge, but that doesn't help his squashes in the least—the camera continues to catch—Colonel Knox is honest about it—and he got tired of Shirley.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON.

FOXY TRICK.

SOME TIME AGO, in the kindness of my heart, I made a touching reference here to the frustrations of Mr. Leslie Fox, a young colleague of mine. I refer, of course, to Mr. Fox's unhappy attempt to grow squashes and tomatoes, at which he has been such an object of failure that I even disguised his name, so the neighbors wouldn't make fun of him.

Last Saturday you saw in the magazine section of this newspaper Mr. Fox's brutal revenge, illustrated. He published a drawing of me made by a mad cartoonist from Vancouver when he was running to catch a boat. He also published a lot of tripe concerning the subject of the drawing which would have embarrassed me if I hadn't been boiled hard by long association with such fellows as Mr. Fox. Pay no attention to these goings-on of Mr. Fox, gentle reader. It is all just a little joke among us boys.

Mr. Fox's squash crop, I may add, is a total failure and I am not going to suppress that news any longer.

CANDID PICTURES

THIS MATTER of candid pictures in the newspapers is worrying a lot of people these days. You have probably noticed that, if they can avoid it, the newspapers don't publish studio pictures, nicely posed, any more. They like to get a picture of a statesman in the act of swallowing a banana or drinking a glass of beer or blinking foolishly in the sun.

These are the best kind of pictures. They are far more interesting than the posed kind and often far more true. You take the recent close-ups of President Roosevelt in New Brunswick, munching a hot dog and then licking the grease off his thumb. They give you a far better idea of the man than any formal portrait taken at his desk.

But the candid camera can be cruel, too; as when it recently pictured the President and Mrs. Roosevelt together talking and the President looking bored to tears. The dictators have the advantage there because they don't allow unflattering pictures to be published. That is why Mr. Hitler always looks so splendidly stately. A few really candid shots I have seen lately made him look quite pop-eyed and nutty.

The candid camera, however, is something that a statesman in a democracy has just got to put up with and he had better learn during his period of apprenticeship (the first twenty years) not to pop his eyes and contort his mouth and scratch his nose in public.

FREE SPEECH

COLONEL FRANK KNOX, Republican candidate for vice-president of the United States, recently dedicated the expanded facilities of Radio Station WROK "with a plea for continued freedom of speech, press and radio and a warning against using radio to spread wrong ideas and encourage wrong policies."

There is all the innocence and childlike beauty of the Tory mind. By all means, freedom of speech for right ideas but, of course, not for wrong ones. And a proper regard for right and wrong compels the honest Tory mind to say that all the other fellows' ideas are wrong and should not be spread abroad.

DEFINITION

THIS INSTINCT is strong in us all and is not confined to the Conservative Party on the right, by any means. You will find as much Toryism in this sort among the Communists on the left. The Tories generally being in control, the left doesn't get a chance to say all it wants to, but if the Communists had their way, the Tories on the right would be shut up and hermetically sealed—or preferably shot at dawn. Neither of them wants free speech, for in a well-disciplined state, free speech is always a danger.

From this springs the present interesting use of the words "Communist" and "Fascist." They have been so widely applied to so many people that they have lost all meaning now. Communist, Fascist and Capitalist have so many variations that no one knows precisely what they are. But one thing is clear—they are all objectionable and if you call a man a Communist or a Fascist or a Capitalist, you don't like him.

A truly scientific definition of Fascist thus is "someone you don't like who has some money." A Communist is "someone you don't like who has no money." A Capitalist is "a person who has saved more of his money than you have." Now you know.

INVENTIONS FOR USE

IT IS RECORDED in the United States that an inventor has recently devised and patented a device for electrical welding, too complicated by far for you or me to understand, but, if it were used it would necessitate the scrapping of millions of dollars worth of machinery in certain metal industries. The industries affected immediately bought the patent and, it is reported, paid several millions for it. But not to use the invention, of course. On the contrary, to prevent its use by any competitors.

A while ago, a man in Winnipeg invented a carburetor which, it was reliably reported, would reduce the amount of gasoline which you would have to use in your car so much as to threaten the American oil industry seriously. Since then, nothing more has been heard of it. One doesn't know whether the carburetor has been bought up and stowed away to prevent its use or not, but the government of Canada should find out, and, if the device can do what they claim for it, the government should see that the inventor is properly compensated and that the invention is manufactured and used.

No device so important to a nation as that should be considered as private property to be withheld from the public for any private interest. If it were a machine gun or a poison gas, the state would grab it; but even such things as radium, needed to treat public disease, can be controlled for private gain and withheld from the public by those who control it. Fortunately, they overlooked patenting the air we breathe, and when the approaching war arrives everyone will be permitted to use a patented rifle—will, indeed, be given one free.

SHIRLEY

THE INFLUENCE of Miss Shirley Temple on our local civilization continues to be profound. As I write this the children from next door and some of their friends are playing a game called "Jubilee Hospital." The little boy from next door is always chosen for the patient, who has to be operated on and he has already undergone a series of surgical investigations such as science has never known before. Sometimes he plays the part of a newborn baby and is fed a thin dilution of one part of milk to fifty parts of water out of a quart milk bottle. (His liquid capacity is truly remarkable.) But generally the newly-born babies, carefully laid out in a neat row and regularly bathed from head to toe are all Shirley Temples, made of china and celluloid. Just between us, we are growing a little tired of Shirley.

Saving the Orangs

TRAVELERS, regaling us with tales of "bringing 'em back alive," have somehow left us with a pretty general impression that the Malayan region is still a brimming reservoir of wild life, with orang-utans, tigers, water buffalo, and pythons ready to pop out at you at every turn of the jungle trail.

Such, however, seems not to be the case at all. Southeastern Asia, and especially the Netherlands Indies, are giving anxious conservation problems to the European powers charged with administrative responsibility. Desirable laws and their workability, game refuges and their suitability, and most of all field research looking toward more intelligent handling of existing and future problems, are illuminatingly discussed in a bulletin of the Netherlands Commission for International Nature Protection, which has been translated into English as a special publication of the American Committee for International Wild Life Protection.

The tropic East Indian Islands that constitute the chief jewels of the Netherlands imperial crown, stretch through more than fifty degrees of longitude, just north of the Equator, from Sumatra on the west to New Guinea on the east. Their varied annals are romantic poetry. Java, Celebes, Ceran, Flores, Timor, the Sundas, the Moluccas—lands that Sindbad knew.

Their fauna is no less provocative to the imagination: Orang-utan, gibbon, simiang, tiger, leopard, panther, Malay bear, Sumatra elephant, Rhinoceros, with one horn and with two. Here are the famed dragon-lizards of Komodo, the giant pythons, terrible in tales but harmless in fact, the formidable-looking but highly edible iguanas. Here, too, is the narrow Wallace Strait, separating Lombok from Bali, famous in evolutionary science long before cameramen and tourists discovered the comeliness of the native women.

Over all this vast faunal realm, like a modern but still anxious Noah, watches the government of the Netherlands Indies. Emulating the example set by the National Parks on this continent, and brilliantly seconded by such governments as Belgium and Britain in Africa, the careful Dutch have set aside special reserves for orang-utan, tiger, and rhinoceros at the very western tip of Java.

Elsewhere regulations of hunting and trapping have been promulgated and repealed on occasion in favor of more practicable ones, where it has been found necessary. Research is showing that some animals can get along on less protection than they now have, but that others need more. Some species have already begun to show the effects of scientific intervention on their behalf, but others are still retreating before the onslaughts of hunters, and even more before the felling of the forests by plantation corporations. It is heartening, however, to know that action is being vigorously and actively conducted on this sector of the world-wide battle for the conservation and restoration of wild life.

HIGH SPEED TRAIN

From Engineering

When the Silver Jubilee express of the London and North Eastern Railway passed Hitchin on its northward journey, it achieved what we understand is the world's endurance record for a steam train, having covered 100,000 miles in a period of nine months. The average speed for the whole distance traveled has been 67.1 m.p.h., but 86,567 miles have been covered at an average speed of 70.4 m.p.h., and 18,283 miles at speeds exceeding 80 m.p.h.

A SUMMER RETREAT ON VANCOUVER ISLAND

By John D. Swanson

Here is the healing balm of peace. Here from all stress and strain release. A serene life find we rest in rippling fields our souls refreshed. What time the rosy dawn up-springs, And blackbirds fill us merry wings. When bees with meadow sweets are filled, Our house of dreams we fondly build. Faint sounds the cock's shrill cry at dawn Like bugle call our velvet lawn. We in dew-drenched garden walk, Like Adam who with God did talk.

FLUORESCENCE

From a Correspondent

The city of Bologna is not only famous for the discovery of its sausage but also for the discovery of the Bologna stone which led directly to the study of fluorescence and phosphorescence. Dr. G. R. Fonda of the General Electric research laboratory pointed out in his radio talk in the G.E. science series.

About 400 years ago, a shoemaker who practiced alchemy noticed in the course of his laboratory tests that a certain mineral he had picked up in the hills nearby continued to shine brightly in the dark after exposure to light. Dr. Fonda said. Other scientists of the time were greatly excited by this phenomenon and experiments began to be made. The accumulation of knowledge in this field was slow, however, for it was not until 1852 that a complete statement was given on the nature of this phenomenon by the English scientist, Stokes, who gave it the present name of fluorescence, after fluor spar, a mineral which had been found to exhibit it.

Stokes also found that fluorescence could be excited only by light whose color, or wavelength, was such that it might be absorbed by the fluorescent substance, and that the color of the fluorescent light is in general of longer wavelength than the color of the light which excites fluorescence.

An understanding of the cause of fluorescence, stated Dr. Fonda, necessitates a consideration of the atomic structure of substances. Atoms can be excited an electron ejected in one of two ways—the atom can receive an impulse from one of the free electrons carrying the current in an electric discharge; or by the absorption of an appropriate beam of light, which can convey the same impulse. By either means, an electron of the atom may be displaced. When it bounces back to its normal position, the energy received from the blow is given up in either or both heat and light. The light is fluorescence.

The applications of fluorescence, apart from producing light, are many, Dr. Fonda said in conclusion. They range from the testing of foods for purity or for adulterants to the detection of alterations in legal documents or bank cheques.

If men cannot see good as good in itself, the promise of a reward for obedience is a vain bribe, which leaves their moral sense not enlightened but corrupted.—J. M. Robertson.

IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

From The Providence Journal

Whatever the causes, the fact stands out that the migration to the cities which was so sharply accentuated by the false prosperity of the decade following the World War has not only been arrested but very definitely reversed. It is a significant and a healthy turn in the distribution of population in this country. It obviously tends toward a better economic balance between the urban and rural sectors of the country. And that, especially in these times, is a very serious need for the sake of achieving at least something approaching economic equilibrium in the United States.

RULES FOR CONVERSATION

From The Bowmanville Statesman

The good conversationalist will neither monopolize, nor dispute, nor interrupt. Obedience to these three commandments at least will do something to keep a fine art from extinction.

FOR A BETTER WORLD

From The Guelph Mercury

Things might get better, too, if we gave less thought to what the world owes us, and more to what we owe the world.

But let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in himself alone, and not in another.—Galatians vi. 4.

Question: Of what value must an estate be to obtain exemption from the payment of Succession Duty?

Answer: Where the property in an estate passes to the father, mother, husband, wife, child, grandchild, daughter-in-law, or son-in-law of the deceased, the exemption applies to estates up to the value of $20,000; in other cases, estates where the net value does not exceed $1,000 are exempt from such duty.

"CURSE OF THE CENTURY"

To the Editor:—For the fine art of causes of motor crashes, see Harper's Magazine for July, pages 178 to 179. Then contemplate the spotted-child treatment the governments of the day award the ignorant, guilty, thrill-loving freaks of the present period, manipulating the modern motor juggernaut, not properly controlled—the curse of the century.

VALUE OF SPEECH TRAINING

To the Editor:—In a world where radio and pictures are demanding the highest and best in diction and expression it is up to every mother to see that the children have speech training. We are living in a new world today and the beauty of speech is one of the most important things in it.

EDNA JACQUES.

CONSTITUENTS FIRST, NOT PARTY

To the Editor:—Much comment has been made that Mr. Connell did not resign his seat in the House. This is consistent to his stand that he owes his allegiance to the constituents of British Columbia, who elected him and the other members three years ago—not to a Communist-controlled executive.

I believe there were over 90,000 C.C.F. votes recorded then, and there are about 6,000 members in the C.C.F. clubs today.

VIEW ROYAL

BOGEYMEN

To the Editor:—Parents have a way of conjuring up a bogeyman to stifle the natural instincts for better treatment of children and thus exercising a finer control over them. Fear is engendered, hate and horror of the unknown permeates their lives for the period until reason asserts itself. Then comes the revulsion and revolution.

Communism, the universally acclaimed bogey, is dubbed all that the apologists and beneficiaries of capitalism should apply to the rotting system which is more or less rapidly depriving them of their privileges and their reason. The resulting confusion of ideas and strife thus brought about is the basis for continued exploitation by the ruling class and their henchmen.

To further increase the confusion it is only necessary to paraphrase and distort slightly some of the theses of the Communists, declare them to be the initiators of some horrors which have been responsible for the depression, strikes, war and fascism. History is ignored, facts are twisted, the real part in everyday life of the Communists is evaded, and Mr. Hyde becomes Dr. Jekyll.

WORKADAY ECONOMICS—UNDER-CONSUMPTION

To the Editor:—Unemployment is a disease of rich nations. It is a symptom of under-consumption. To prescribe thrift, harder work and economizing as a remedy for it is the very acme of absurdity, the limit of unreason. For those are just the sort of things that would produce glut and unemployment. The only rational cure is more spending, a greater volume of "consumption."

Equally out of date is the gospel of scarcity, the policy of "soak the rich." We can produce wealth galore—there is no need to steal any—this is the Age of Abundance.

The labor of Canada's workless, during the last six years, could have paid off the whole of the external public debt of the Dominion. Why didn't it? Because our external creditors would not "consume"—would not accept payment in the only possible form, viz., in goods.

BEER CAMPAIGN "VILLAINOUS"

To the Editor:—In view of the increased controversy which has appeared in the local papers recently, in the matter of beer, wine and tourism, it is obvious that a sinister movement is on foot to force the government to allow beer and wine to be served with meals in hotel dining-rooms.

This villainous campaign is only the work of those who expect monetary benefit directly or indirectly and not for any compensation they have for the comfort of the tourists.

The casual reader, Mr. Editor, would imagine that the average American never sits to meals without his beer and wine, when the contrary is the truth. The American is much like his cousin, the "Canuck." In this respect, and will take his coffee or tea in preference to beer or wine with meals.

Members of the government will be well advised to stay clear of this bit of class legislation, unless the government intends to control liquor as it should be controlled, manufactured and sold by the glass under government supervision. I quote: Salus populi suprema est lex.

MALCOLM C. McPHAIL.

DR. TELFORD NO MUSSOLINI

To the Editor:—Mr. A. B. Sanders, on behalf of Mr. Robert Connell, is of the opinion that Dr. Telford is a Mussolini. Prior to the last federal election, at a meeting held in the City Temple, under the auspices of the C.C.F., Dr. Telford was the speaker of the evening on behalf of the candidate, Prof. Gordon. At the close of his address, the writer asked Dr. Telford through the chair what was his own opinion about Mr. Harold Winch, and Mrs. Steeves, two duly elected representatives in the B.C. Legislature, going into the Province of Alberta and "raising Cain with the Alberta dirt farmers over Social Credit." I said I considered it was somewhat parallel to the C.C.F. policy and a colossal blunder.

Dr. Telford replied he was in full accord with the sentiments expressed. Who controls C.C.F. propaganda over the radio? Some two months ago a meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium in Victoria, under the auspices of the C.C.F., Dr. Telford was the speaker of the evening. In the course of his address, when referring to his policy of plenty for all, he said that if the local C.C.F. clubs so desired, he would be only too pleased to hand over the business to them in the shape of the profits that accrue on the commission for commodities such as groceries. Thereby they would be in a position to finance their own local radio programme in the interest of the C.C.F. movement.

The foregoing, to my mind, as one outside the C.C.F. movement, from an unbiased trend of mind on the subject under review, surely does not denote Dr. Telford to be a dictator.

WALTER INWARD.
1446 Lang Street.

"DISLOYAL AND DISRUPTIVE"

To the Editor:—The Rev. Mr. Connell has made a very significant declaration regarding the policy that has now been officially adopted by the C.C.F. in this province. This declaration is undoubtedly a death blow to the fortunes of the C.C.F. in British Columbia, and establishes what has long been asserted by Conservatives, that the C.C.F. movement is a disloyal and disruptive one. Mr. Connell has good cause to "profoundly resent the implication . . . that because he is not ashamed to profess loyalty to God and his King, that he is therefore a traitor to the people's cause."

Like so many honest and sincere believers in social progress who are, however, loyal to those institutions that have served the British people well, Mr. Connell has found that the radical party to which he has given his support has become too strong for him, and beyond sane and sensible control, and being an extreme radical party, has attracted to its ranks those who are traitors to British institutions, scoffers of religion, and those who do not honor the King.

In other words, they profess to believe in principles that are utterly opposed to ideals of the British people, and are in fact, enemies within our midst. Marxian Socialism means in its final analysis repudiation of our whole system of government, including the institution of the Crown. History and experience has shown in Europe that extreme Socialism, which is Communism, begets Fascism, as instanced in Germany and Italy, and the logical result of any effective advancement of C.C.F. doctrines in Canada, would result in nothing less than civil war.

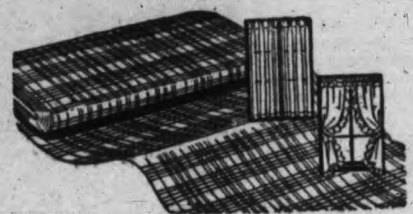

Owing to the fact that the C.C.F. has had Mr. Connell as its leader, it has managed to make some claim to respectability, the last vestige of which is now dispersed by reason of Mr. Connell's declaration. In future, we can be practically assured that the C.C.F. in this province will be relegated to that obscurity which has marked its status in the rest of Canada, indication of which can be found in the results of the general election in Manitoba.

Name Barrymore In Astor Suit

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Aug. 11.—Mary Astor testified yesterday that John Barrymore poured out his troubles to her after "that famous transcontinental trip of his."
The actress apparently referred to Barrymore's flight across the nation from New York last September with his protegee, Elaine Barrie, in pursuit.
Miss Astor was asked concerning Barrymore during sharp cross-examination in her suit to have declared void the divorce won from her by Dr. Franklyn Thorpe last year, and to gain custody of her four-year-old daughter, Marylyn.
Asked if Barrymore, the noted stage and screen actor, had not visited her, and when, she replied:
"I don't recall the exact date but it was the day he arrived back from that famous transcontinental trip of his."
The auburn-haired actress said she thought Barrymore visited her twice.
"He was talking over his troubles," she explained.
Barrymore's name was mentioned shortly after Miss Astor had been questioned about Bennett Cerf with whom she said had gone out several times in New York.

T.B. Veterans Will Hold Tag Day

For Club Purposes;
Volunteers For
Tagging Needed

To raise much-needed funds for the completion of the sunroom at the Tubercular Veterans clubhouse of the Canadian Legion, the Women's Auxiliary will hold a tag day on Saturday.
These veterans, all of whom were gassed, or otherwise contracted the disease during the Great War, find both comfort and comradeship at their club, which was only acquired after a long and determined effort to raise funds, in which the auxiliary gave indefatigable assistance.
The sunroom is a recent addition and, as these veterans are proscribed from the sources of revenue open to other veterans' clubs, they find it necessary to appeal to the public once a year, confident that their appeal will meet with sympathetic response.
Tags are also badly needed for Saturday, as the membership of the auxiliary is very small, and few of the veterans are fit to stand for long. Any volunteers will be gratefully welcomed and are requested to get in touch as soon as possible with Mrs. D. W. Burnett, E0079, or Mrs. R. S. Campbell, G 2781.

Scottish Visitor Is Disappointed

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Aug. 11.—Miss C. H. Rottenburg of Pintry, Scotland, who came to Canada for the double purpose of buying a portrait of an ancestor, Baron de Rottenburg, and shooting at the Dominion Rifle Association meet at Comnaught Ranges, is returning without the picture.
For years Miss Rottenburg has been searching for a picture of the baron, who served in the war of 1812 and retired from the British army as a Lieutenant-General.
Lieut.-Col. C. W. G. Gibson of Hamilton, Ont., found a portrait of the baron in the Hamilton home of Miss L. de Rottenburg Ridley and Miss Rottenburg went to see it.
"The portrait I saw in Hamilton was not the one I was seeking, and in any case the price placed on it by the present owner was too prohibitive for me to think of acquiring it," she said today. She declined to say how much was asked for the picture.

Hitchcock in St. Paul's Church, Nanaimo, yesterday evening when Marjorie Ellen Gertrude, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gibbons, became the bride of Dr. George Raymond Barrett of Pioneer, B.C., formerly of Vancouver and Winnipeg.

Little Marjorie Sloan, cousin of the bride, was a flower girl, wearing a pink frock of white point d'esprit over satin, a becoming point of bonnet and carried a nosegay of bright flowers. Rev. Edward Barrett of Merritt, B.C., was best man.

Quintuplets See Big Sister

Canadian Press
Callander, Ont., Aug. 11.—Rose Dionne visited her five sisters yesterday and the quintuplets were so pleased about it they tried to kiss her through the screening of their nursery.

It was the first visit any of the five older Dionne children has made to the nursery in months. They were kept away for some time by an outbreak of measles among them. When the quint saw eight-year-old Rose today they crowded around the window and when she walked along the nursery veranda they kept pace with her inside.

Rose's visit was a result of the conversation yesterday between Hon. David A. Croft, Ontario Minister of Welfare and a quint guardian, and Olivia Dionne, father of the quintuplets. Mr. Croft visited the famous papa at the retirement stand he has opened across the road from the nursery and they conversed amiably for some time. The minister suggested the older children visit the quint.

Dionne said today he had reached understanding about the transfer of more land to the guardians. Some time ago the government expropriated some of Dionne's land for an extension of the nursery and now the plan is to use more for a park for the children.

Strange Pact Signed By Bride

White Girl Makes Contract With Chinese Husband

Canadian Press
New York, Aug. 11.—When Ruby Nell Anthony, former Georgia Sunday school teacher, became the mail-order bride of Joseph Wang, Harlem laundry proprietor, she signed a pact agreeing to bear him at least one child, but not more than two. The pact, signed by both parties, also reveals Wang as the family business head taking care of such matters as "property, business, home and money."

It was three months ago that Mr. Wang met his wife who came here by bus from Layonia, Ga., where she had read one of Wang's handbills advertising for a "really true and honest devoted Christian wife," who would not mind helping him wash shirts and collars in his laundry. Wang had distributed 1,000 handbills in Harlem churches, and one of them had got down to Georgia.

Since his marriage, May 5, to the Georgian, who is twenty-two years old and speaks in a quiet drawl, the diminutive Chinese has developed a passion for the study of law, and has set up a nine-shelf library of law books in his laundry. His greatest achievement, he admits, is the contract which he and his wife signed as something to "go on" in the future. It was witnessed by Mrs. Wang's mother, Mrs. Rachel Anthony, it was duly notarized, and it supersedes other pacts signed at the time of the marriage.

HUSBAND "BOSS"

The contract, which does not exactly repudiate the Oriental conception of the wife's station in the household, follows:

"The following is what Joseph Wang had promised Ruby Nell Anthony:

"1. Joseph Wang had promised to be faithful and true and honest to Ruby Nell Anthony and love her alone for the whole lifetime. If Joseph Wang loves any other women, by this agreement, Ruby Nell Anthony can punish Joseph Wang by putting him in jail for one year, if this matter can be proved, and can divorce him."

"2. Joseph Wang had promised to try his best to keep a home, to make success for the future."

"3. Joseph Wang had promised Ruby Nell Anthony always to live a Christian life and never drink liquor, smoke or gamble."

"4. Joseph Wang had promised Ruby Nell Anthony always to keep a home in the United States, and not to sell the home unless Ruby Nell Anthony and Joseph Wang decide together to do otherwise."

HER PROMISE

"The following is what Ruby Nell Anthony had promised to Joseph Wang:

"1. Ruby Nell Anthony had promised to be faithful and true and honest to Joseph Wang, to love Joseph Wang alone for whole lifetime and not to have any other man friend. If Ruby Nell Anthony loves any other man and has any other man friend, by this agreement, Joseph Wang can leave and divorce Ruby Nell Anthony without giving anything whatever, if this matter can be proved to be true."

"2. Ruby Nell Anthony had promised to Joseph Wang not to be lazy and to try her best to do what she can to assist Joseph Wang in business and home to make their future success, so that Joseph Wang can have some chance to study engineering. Ruby Nell Anthony promised Joseph Wang always to live a Christian life and never to drink liquor, smoke or gamble."

"3. Ruby Nell Anthony had promised Joseph Wang to go back and forth with Joseph Wang to open the engineering school in China some day, to let Joseph Wang manage his property, business, home and money, and to have one or two children (but not more than two) and train the children strictly and lead them to know the truth of God."

PARENTS MAY HELP THE TIMID CHILD BY CALLING ATTENTION TO HIS ASSETS

It is natural for mothers to worry about the timidity of their boys or girls. Timidity cannot be talked out of a child but the right parental attitudes may free him of its socially inhibiting influence.

Timidity is the result of the child's belief in his own inferiority. He thinks himself physically unattractive and not bright or smart enough to be entertaining. He may think slowly and find himself tongue tied in the presence of people, being eager to see and hear but not to be seen or heard.

PLAY UP GOOD POINTS

Parents get nowhere by urging the child to speak up and assuring him he's as good as the next one. His timidity should be ignored. To impress it upon him by arguments against it makes it a kind of virtue and distinction which the child enjoys.

DIVINE FAITH BRINGS UNITY

Stable World Order Rests With Celto-Saxons, Says Rev. E. J. Springett

The league of Celto-Saxon peoples described in verse eleven, Genesis xxiv, as "The Nations and the Company of Nations," is the only league of nations which could, and inevitably will, have to insure world peace, said Rev. E. J. Springett, Dominion Commissioner of the British Israel World Federation, in an address to a capacity audience in the Empire Theatre yesterday evening.

Mr. Springett gave the sequence to his "Message of Prophecy in This Time of Chaos," which he gave on Sunday evening.

Today there was no man secure in his position for the future. There was a peculiar tenacity in the minds of the people and everyone felt change in the management of affairs was inevitable, he said.

This belief was supported, he said, by evidence of experiments being tried out in the Old World under Communism and Fascism, and in the New World as "new deals."

"We must return to Divine purpose and plan for the administration of our own affairs," Mr. Springett said.

Working against this objective, he said, were vast organizations opposed to basic principles which were the foundation of any stable order or civilization.

There could be no maintenance of stable order without the Celto-Saxon people, whom he defined as those whose history, traditions, and civilizations manifested the ideals of faith and law.

The term Celto-Saxon, he explained, embraced a wider field than Anglo-Saxon, including all people of the British Commonwealth, a greater percentage of the people of the United States, and kindred stock in Scandinavia, Denmark, Finland and other countries. All these peoples, with similar ideals, were gradually becoming unified, he said.

GARBAGE ISSUE TO BE STUDIED

Collection Charges to Be Investigated By City Public Works Executive

Garbage collection problems were raised again in the City Council yesterday evening as that body considered costs of taking from apartment houses and duplex dwellings refuse accumulations in excess of the regular one can a week.

The question, after preliminary discussion, was referred to the executive of the public works committee for a report and recommendation.

A letter from the Tweedsmuir Mansions was read asking for greater accommodation than one garbage can. The owner stated he would require four cans. He was prepared to pay fifteen cents a can for collections in excess of the one collected free, but asked special consideration be given his apartment house for collections in the midweek. Duplex houses, he said, were allowed two garbage cans. Alderman Walter Lunney suggested only one can be collected each week and that extra cans be handled at a cost of twenty-five cents apiece per trip. The existing rate did not pay for the visits made by the trucks, he said.

In view of conflicting opinions on existing rulings the entire matter was referred to the executive of the public works committee for study and a report.

LISTS EVENTS FOR NAVY WEEK

Ceremonies and Functions Here From August 20 to 24 Are Announced

The complete programme for the city's observance of Navy Week, from August 20 to 24 inclusive, covering social and athletic events, was announced yesterday evening by Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the committee.

H.M.S. Apollo would return to Victoria on Thursday, August 20, he said. The following evening, Friday, the visiting ship would "beat the retreat" opposite the Empress Hotel. The provincial government dinner to the Lord Mayor of London would be held that evening at 8 o'clock.

On Saturday, August 22, the civic Navy Week luncheon will be held at noon in the Empress Hotel. Sports will follow at Macdonald Park, starting at 2 o'clock. On Sunday a revolver shoot will be staged at the R.C.N. barracks at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Football, at the Athletic Park at 5:30 o'clock, will furnish the sports interest on Monday, and the festivities will be brought to a close with the big Navy ball at the Empress Hotel later that evening. The ball will start at 9:30 o'clock.

May Participate In Vancouver's Parade

Consideration of entering a float in Vancouver's parade, which will open the Panama Pacific Exposition on August 26, was referred to the finance committee by the City Council yesterday evening.

A request for a city entry was received in the form of a letter from Mayor G. G. McGeer.

Alderman P. R. Brown noted Victoria had already participated in one of the parades.

Mayor Leeming commented the Vancouver celebrations this year had undoubtedly brought a lot of visitors from distant points to Victoria. It was well to co-operate in the matter, as Mayor McGeer suggested.

Alderman Dewar moved the matter be referred to the finance committee, and added the remark that Vancouver might well direct its plea for co-operation between the two cities to the Vancouver publicity bureau.

Alderman James Adam seconded Alderman Dewar's motion, noting Victoria would expect Vancouver participation in this city's seventy-fifth anniversary functions next year.

Alderman Archie Willis urged that if a float were sent over it be made a worthwhile entry in the Vancouver procession.

Last Party At Sunshine Camp

$700 Needed To Enable Teen-age Girls Attend

The last party of mothers and children for this season left for the Fred Lansberg Sunshine Camp at Sasenen, Sooke, on Monday. Unless the sum of $700 is received within the next few days, the final camp, that for teen age girls will have to be seriously curtailed.

As the work done by this community enterprise is so largely preventive, it is almost impossible to evaluate its worth in actual dollars and cents. Only those mothers and children who have no other opportunity of getting away from unsatisfactory living conditions, and have health problems as well as other difficulties to face, are given this holiday by the sea. As no provision is made by budgeting through a welfare agency for the maintenance of the camp, it must be entirely financed through the gifts of the more fortunately placed section of the public. Every effort has been made to keep expenses to the lowest possible figure consistent with plenty of good food and efficient management. It has been found possible to keep either a mother or a child at camp for the full two weeks for $8.

Officials of the Friendly Help Welfare Association, who make the necessary arrangements for the applicants to go to camp, and who do the office work connected with it, feel strongly that all sorts of serious trouble is guarded against by the disease resistance built up during the camp period. Putting it on a coldly commercial basis, the actual saving to

BEACH CLUB GIRL

MADELL
McElliott
CONCEIVED BY
OF THE SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BOOTS RAEBURN, eighteen and pretty, tries not to be jealous of the other girls in her new, fashionable New York suburb, SYLVIA RIVERS, richest girl in town, dislikes Boots and fails to invite her to the party at the Yacht Club. Boots accepts a last-minute invitation from MRS. WATERMAN, socially prominent, to a dinner at the club that same night.

Quite innocently, Boots is thrown into an embarrassing situation by HARDY WATERMAN, one of Sylvia's guests, who had been drinking. He tries to induce Boots to go sailing with him and, when she runs away, goes off in a boat alone and falls overboard. His rescue causes considerable excitement and Sylvia is furious. She resolves to punish Boots and maliciously repeats the story in the way to discredit the other girls.

MRS. FERNELL, prominent member of the Women's Club, asks Boots to resign from the Yacht Club. Hardy calls to apologize to Boots. He asks her to "go places" that evening and Boots, hurt and defiant, tells him she'll like to go to "The Barn"—a questionable dance resort.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X
Sylvia flicked the ash from her cigarette. The hand holding it trembled a little. Sylvia wore a huge emerald on her third finger, against the sunburned skin it burned like an evil eye.

"I don't know what you're talking about," she said languidly. Isabel faced her squarely. The crisp red curls on Isabel's small head fairly crackled.

"I think you do," Isabel said sturdily. "Mrs. Fernell saw you that day. She sent for Boots. And now Boots is out," she finished, spreading her small fingers apart in an expressive gesture.

"And so what does that make me?" Sylvia wanted to know, with insolence.

"You know as well as I do, Sylvia Rivers," said Isabel hotly, "that Boots Raeburn hadn't a thing in the world to do with Hardy's being tight that night. He'd had a lot before he arrived at your table. He had some more there—"

"Am I denying that?" Sylvia inquired, squinting through smoke, smiling ever so faintly. "No, my dear, your little girl friend's big mistake was in going out on the boat with him—getting herself into this and I am through as friends," Isabel said. She knew when she was beaten. There was no use trying to appeal to Sylvia.

"Dear, dear, how melodramatic the child is," murmured Sylvia softly. "Come around Monday day with the weather isn't so hot and perhaps you'll feel differently." She dropped her air of studied insolence and now spoke almost coaxingly to the other girl. "Snap out of it, Isabel. I haven't a thing to do with this affair. If Boots has been indiscreet, that's her business. Why, I'd be glad to talk to Mrs. Fernell about it—ask her to give Boots another chance."

"You would—honestly?"

"Yes, only that—that Boots went to the Barn last night with Hardy and John Fernell, that's all there—only, well, the nicest girls in Larnack didn't go there, usually."

"Well, my dear, ask your yourself," Sylvia's manner was a judicious compound of sympathy and boredom. "Even nowadays," she went on judicially, "a girl has to be fairly careful what she does. Oh, I know, my dear, we all pet and coddle and take a drink if the tables aren't looking—but the Barn? Well, even I drew the line at that," said Sylvia virtuously, omitting to add that she had been there two or three times during the winter when fur collars were rather in the nature of disguises and when the Larcheck set didn't go there much, anyhow.

"I admire you for your loyalty," Sylvia said with suspicious sweetness and gentleness. "Nobody knows better than I what a true friend you are. But, believe me, you're wasting your time on Boots. She is evidently determined to be a disaster. You can't do anything with them." She ground her cigarette out in the huge pewter tray.

"I don't believe it," Isabel said. "We grew up together. Until they took their money about five years ago Boots was loyal to everything. Her family has lived here longer than anyone else's."

Sylvia allowed herself to look profoundly bored. "I know," she offered lightly. "But where does all that rest us? There's no use kidding yourself, Izzy, darling. Boots has chosen a different line. She's probably decided she's got to do something spectacular to get notice nowadays. Not that I think Hardy would ever take her seriously. He's just amusing himself."

"Boots is beautiful enough for any man to take seriously," Isabel said, with heat. "My cousin Marion—you know, the artist—said when she was here last year that Boots has true classic beauty. Marion raved about her."

Sylvia contented herself by merely lifting her finely arched brows over her too-prominent, too-closely spaced blue eyes.

"Really?" she said, disposing of Boots and cousin Marion all in one breath.

"And I think Hardy is terribly interested in her if you ask me," Isabel flared, annoyed at the other girl's "why wouldn't he be?"

"Well, that's perfectly sweet of you, dear," murmured Sylvia with the tolerant air of one humoring a lunatic. So Isabel went away, wounded.

"We simply must patch the whole thing up," Isabel insisted.

and puzzled and worried. If Boots had gone to the Barn with Hardy, on the heels of being asked to resign from the Juniors, that was the supreme gesture of defiance. All the Juniors knew Mrs. Fernell's attitude on the subject of the Barn. It was all right, of course, for John Fernell, twenty-three and dissipated, to go there; but the girls under Mrs. Fernell's leadership in the Juniors understood the tacit ban on the place.

Boots's attitude, when Isabel saw her, puzzled her further. This was a new Boots, cool, enigmatic, untouchable. It was funny, resigning from the club, wasn't it? She wanted to know. Silly outfit, anyway. She had never liked it. Everybody was so stuffy.

"But next year's dances," Isabel began, appalled. "Why, we simply must patch the whole thing up! It's all so stupid. You want to go to the Thanksgiving dance, don't you?"

Boots smiled a faraway smile and said she hadn't the faintest idea where she would be by Thanksgiving. Isabel, repulsed by the other girl's coldness and indifference, refrained from saying anything about Sylvia, the Barn, or any of the other topics her mind had been churning about. If she had known that, on her departure, Boots flung herself down on the living-room couch and burst into frantic weeping, she would have returned quickly. As it was, they parted with a distinct sense of reserve, almost unkindness. Boots, conscious of having been in error when she had gone to the Barn with Hardy, wounded in her pride, Isabel, hurt to the quick, stung by her friend's unresponsiveness and withdrawal.

"I don't know what's getting into me these days," Boots murmured at last, struggling to a sitting position and mopping her streaming eyes. "I look a perfect fright. What if anyone should come to the door?"

She bathed reddened eyes and then straightened her tumbled locks. How could Isabel understand that her adventure last night had been a gesture of defiance, directed at her enemies. Why, the Barn had been a horrid bore. Couples revolving slowly in a smoke-laden room. Indifferent food, sandwiches with dry bread and rancid meat. Hardy, bringing out a flask, and running entirely true to form as the wild young man out for a night's gaiety. Boots had hated all of it and had drawn a long breath of relief when at last she had been set down in her own driveway. But now everything was more horrid still. Instead of pouring out the torrent of sympathy and indignant championship she had expected, Isabel had come around with a stiff, worried air, as if at last she had been left out of the autumn party and was now being asked to go.

Boots made beds and washed dishes with apathy. How different the house looked with Mother away! Nothing seemed to go right. Even the window shades were at crazy angles and no matter how she twiddled at them, they didn't seem to respond. Oh, and they would get out of here, go over to the club and swim and forget her little troubles.

She went along swiftly, swinging her bathing bag, humming a tune from an air of casualness she was far from feeling. On the veranda a magazine in her lap, her eyes on two small figures in the sand, sat young Mrs. Perry George, one of the Raeburns' neighbors. Boots liked and admired the tall young woman with the fresh color and friendly eyes. Frances George had been an editor's assistant before and after her marriage. Her house was a delicious tumble of books and magazines and flowers, rather unlike the usual suburban interior. Boots liked to go there.

"Hello, there," Frances put down the book she had been reading and beckoned to her. "I hear you're the housekeeper. Come and have lunch with us today. We'd love it."

Boots perched on the arm of the battered wicker armchair. "I'd adore to. Sure, you want me?"

There was something challenging about her tone and Frances George elevated an inquiring eyebrow. "What do you mean? Of course, we do."

Boots shrugged her pretty shoulders. "The old ladies are after my heads under water."

Frances George laughed. "The old ladies? I'm no longer a member of the Larcheck Juniors."

"Oh, that!" Frances laughed cheerfully. "Well, I don't see how you stood it as long as you did. You'll be dead long enough."

"You don't understand," Boots went on with a sort of gay defiance. "I was asked to resign."

The young woman in the blue print frock frowned. "What do you suppose I care?" she demanded. "Tell me about it if you want to, but it doesn't matter in the least." She rose from her chair at a shriek from one of the small red-suited figures. The boy-child was belaboring the girl-child with a shovel.

"I must rescue Gwen from the devil," she said casually, to the scandal of two ladies nearby, gossiping over their needlepoint. "See you later. Chow at one."

Boots went toward the bathrooms with her head held high. It gave her a lift to have the matter of her disgrace taken so casually. Maybe she wasn't outside the pale completely, after all.

But as she passed a group of young people at the showers several heads were turned aside casually. Judith Devin, whom she had known rather well at school, looked straight through—looked beyond her.

"Come along," Judith said to some unseen companion in her clear and pleasant voice. She ignored Boots completely.

The girl went on to her cubicle, her heart beating fast, her blood racing. So it was to be war to the knife, was it? She would show them how much—how little she cared!

Your Baby's Health
CALL DOCTOR, THEN INDUCE VOMITING, SHOULD YOUR CHILD TAKE POISON
By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Children occasionally pick up something in the house and, not understanding the danger, swallow materials which menace health and life. The first thing to do under these circumstances is to call a doctor at once, telling him, if possible, what you suspect is the nature of the poison the child has taken. This is important, since most poisons have special antidotes, and the doctor then can bring the one especially suited to the case.

In the meantime the child may be caused to vomit if you are quite certain that he has swallowed poison, for this purpose a strong solution of salt water, taken warm in fairly large quantities, is about as good as anything else.

Everybody knows that putting the finger into the back of the throat induces vomiting. When the child gags, it does not require much encouragement to cause him to vomit.

One advantage of large quantities of salt water is that it will weaken the mixture of the poison, even if the child does not vomit.

If the child has swallowed caustic substances, such as acids or things that burn, olive oil in water, or egg white in water, is a useful first aid remedy.

Always try to find out the nature of the poison. An empty bottle in the vicinity, or presence of some of the poison in a cup, in a utensil, on the tablecloth, floor, or clothing may be a valuable sign.

An unusual odor on the breath may indicate the substance that has been swallowed. Burns on the lips, tongue, and cheeks are evidences of the presence of caustic poisons. Taking of poison is frequently followed by shock. This must be treated like other cases of fainting, dizziness, or shock. The child should be put to bed immediately and should be kept warm and recumbent. If the child happens to have taken a strong narcotic drug, he should be made to vomit. Then strong black coffee may be given him.

At the same time, it is necessary to do everything possible to keep the patient awake. Sometimes it is necessary to shake him lightly or to have him walk about to keep the tissues of the body active. If the child poisoned with a narcotic is permitted to sleep, breathing may stop.

It is especially important to make certain that a child has not taken some common laxative and cathartic tablets which may be chocolate coated and contain strychnine. Strychnine is one of the most dangerous poisons we know, and the dose for a child is far smaller than that for an adult. Immediate attention of a doctor is important to save the life of a child who has taken strychnine.

RELAY SQUAD IN GREAT FORM TO SET NEW MARK

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THE NEW YORK YANKEES swept on to the American League pennant with a perfectly balanced batting power.

It is an extra base hitting club, any regular of which is likely to belt the ball into the next precinct at any time. When Charley Ruffing works, there isn't a single turn at bat where an opposing pitcher can breathe easy. The redhead is one of the most dangerous hitters in the game.

The Yankees' team average is around .313. Joe McCarthy's 125 home runs to date and leads both major circuits in mass production of runs. It is an outfit of good speed. Its members can hunt, hit and run, and do all the other things that contribute to a diversified and devastating attack.

The Detroit Tigers were shot to pieces by injuries after the Boston Red Sox suffered for want of pitching and failed to click as a unit. The Cleveland-Indians lack dash and fire and appear awed when opposed by real class. The junior wheel as a whole isn't as formidable as it has been in seasons gone by. The Rupperts breeze to the world series in an off year, so far as robust competition is concerned.

This does not detract from their offense, however. It compares quite favorably with that of flag-gathering aggregations of the past.

Crossett, Rolfe, DiMaggio, Gehrig, Dickey, Selkirk, Roy Johnson or Powell, and Luzzari present a succession of headaches to rival dealers. The trouble starts with Frankie, who is at shortstop. This right-handed batter seldom swings at a bad ball and draws many bases on balls as a result. He hits a long ball and drives in a surprising number of runs for a leadoff man.

Red Rolfe's average is around .297. In addition to his power, this left-handed hitter is an exceptionally fine punter. He is very fast and knows how to slide away from the ball on an extra base hit.

The Bronx murderers' row reaches its apex with DiMaggio, Gehrig, Dickey, and Selkirk.

Joe DiMaggio, the prize recruit, roared into the month of August with an average of .346. Hard to fool, this right-handed hitter with the ideal stroke waits for the ball he likes. Always ready, he gets tremendous power into a short swing which isn't started until the ball is right upon him.

Splash Over 800 Metres in 8.51.5; Canadians in Seventh Place

DICK DEGENER DIVING CHAMP

Canadian Press

Berlin, Aug. 11.—Four Japanese who churned through the waters of the Olympic pool as though they had fins for feet today won the 800-metre men's relay championship, with the United States second and Canada seventh and second last.

The world and Olympic record of 8 minutes 56.1 seconds was submerged as the streamlined sons of Nippon stroked to a soft victory in 8.51.5. The displaced mark was set by this same quartette—Masanori Yusa, Shigeo Sugita, Shoji Taguchi and Shigeo Arai—in yesterday's trials.

The United States team, beaten by fifteen metres, was composed of Ralph Flanagan, John Macdonis, Paul Wolfe and Jack Medina.

Munro Bourne, Montreal; Bob Pirie, Toronto; Bob Hamerton, Winnipeg; and Bob Hooper, Vancouver, formed the Canadian team.

THRILLING DUEL

Another Japanese victory was scored by Hideo Maehata in the women's 200-metre breaststroke final. She beat Martha Genger by a foot after a thrilling race.

The two girls waged a duel down the final stretch in the 200-metre breaststroke final that had everyone of the 20,000 spectators standing on their seats and yelling. Inge Sorenson, Denmark, finished third. Miss Maehata's time was 3:03.6.

In the relay the Americans, clocked in 9:03.2, never could threaten the Japanese seas but held second place easily from the challenge of Hungary, France, Germany, Great Britain, Canada and Sweden, which trailed in that order.

Pirie went out of the 400-metre freestyle this morning when he finished sixth in a semi-final won by Shumpei Uto, Japan's new holder of the Olympic record for the distance.

The muscular little Nipponese set the water boiling in the last 100 metres to leave the pack well behind. Although his time of 4 minutes, 48.4 seconds did not approach the world record of 4:45.8 he set up yesterday.

The nineteen-year-old Pirie tried valiantly but did not have the sprint speed to keep pace with the first company. He was clocked in 4:58.7. He is expected to make a better showing in the 1,500-metre grind.

NOEL OXENBURY OUT

Canada's two bidders for the women's 100-metre backstroke championship, also were eliminated, failing to thrash their way through the preliminary trials.

Noel Oxenbury, New Westminster, finished seventh in a field that was outclassed by a member of Holland's five-star team, Miss Senf, as she by Shumpei Uto, Japan's new holder of the Olympic record for the distance.

Miss Oxenbury was in good position for the first half of the race, but she turned badly and fell rapidly behind in the second leg. An English girl, Miss Hampton, qualified for the semi-finals by taking third place.

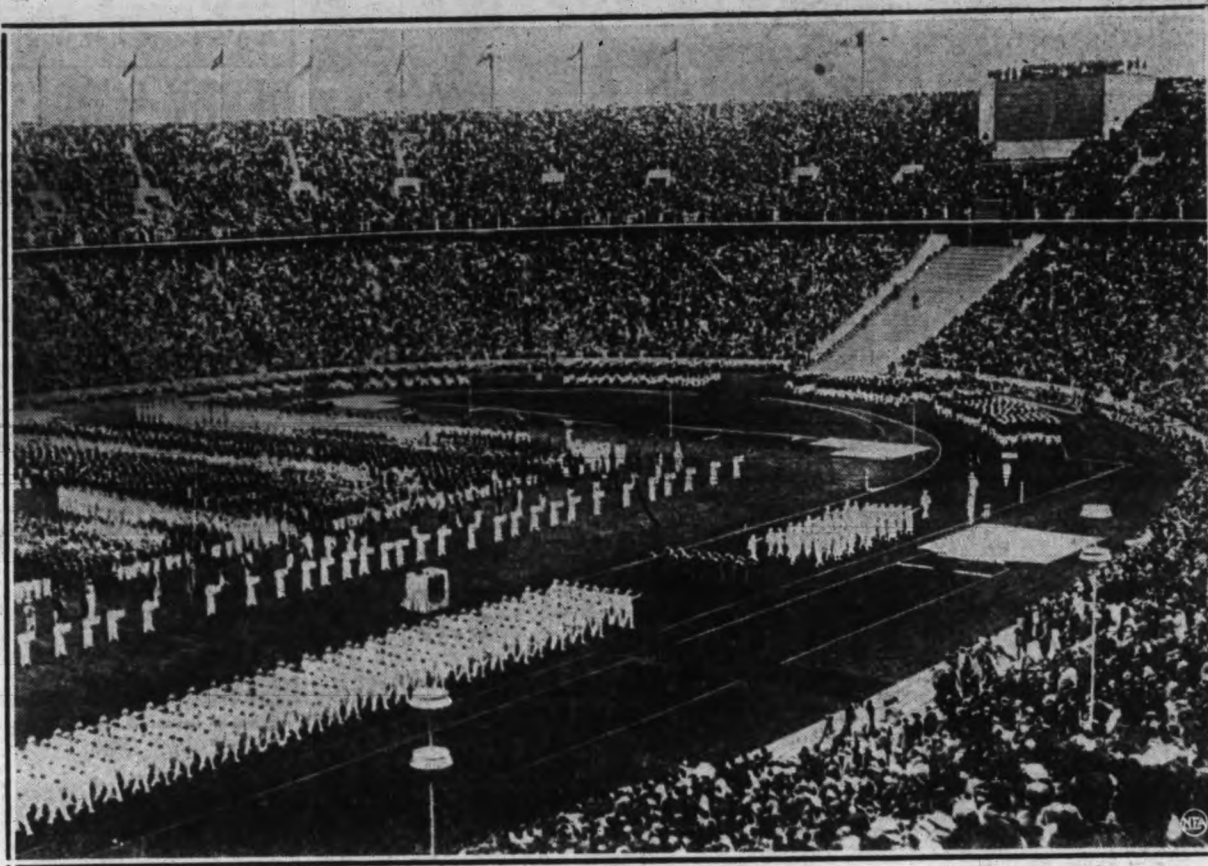

Mary McConkey, slim little Edmonton mermaid, failed by inches to get through another trial, won by Edith M. Segal, United States, in 1:21.0. The Canadian girl was fifth, barely missing fourth and a qualifying berth in 1:16.6, shoring 1.7 seconds from the listed record for the game.

Miss Oxenbury was in good position for the first half of the race, but she turned badly and fell rapidly behind in the second leg. An English girl, Miss Hampton, qualified for the semi-finals by taking third place.

Dick Degener, Detroit, paced the United States to a sweep of the first three places in the springboard diving championship, with Marshall Wayne, Miami, second and Al Green, Chicago, third.

Degener, third in a similar American sweep of this event in the 1932 Olympic Games, took the first two places, scored 163.37 points in the two-day programme of five compulsory and five optional dives. Wayne wound up with 159.56 points and Greene with 146.29.

Parade Of World's Athletes At Olympic Games

Ringed around by 110,000 enthusiastic, cheering Germans and visitors who jammed every vantage point, athletes from all over the world marched into the great stadium at Berlin for the opening of the eleventh renewal of the modern Olympic Games. Competitors in their colorful uniforms are seen, in this picture, arrayed on the field during the impressive ceremony. Nearly 5,000 athletes took part in the spectacle that climaxed Germany's years of participation.

Here in Berlin at the present time the athlete is the idol of the hour. Everywhere the visiting competitors are greeted warmly by the enthusiastic citizens, and nothing is too much trouble for the German people if they are doing a service for the competing athletes.

Proving to be without a superior as a host, Germany has spared no effort to make this eleventh renewal of the modern Olympiad the greatest of all time. In every part of Berlin are the multi-colored flags of all nations, the Olympic flags and the red banners bearing the German swastika, and everywhere the visiting competitors are welcomed heartily. The great Reich Sport Field, where most of the events will be held, is the greatest and most elaborate of the wonderful preparations for the Olympic Games.

The massive concrete stadium is a masterpiece of construction and holds 120,000 people at an unobstructed view of the faultless running track and athletic field. Also included in the sport field are the Dietrich-Eckart Open-air Theatre, in which any important concerts and plays will be held; the swimming stadium, which seats 18,000 spectators; the sports hall, where the gymnastics and fencing will take place and the grounds for riding, polo, soccer, hockey and basketball.

The Olympic Village, the Reich Army's gift to the youth of the world, was constructed by the German Army to be used as an officers' training camp in the future. The Village contains 150 permanent dwellings for the athletes in a pretty setting of trees and well-kept lawns. Each house is equipped with showers and washing rooms, and accommodates twenty-four persons in double-bedded rooms. The huge circular restaurant building has separate dining halls for each country and can feed 3,000 men at one time. The meals consist of all the plain wholesome food the athletes wish, with no pastry or fancy dishes served at any time. At the gates of the Village, which no women are allowed to pass, are the administrative offices, reception rooms, stores and a post office and bank. The stores and the bank were built specially to save the competitors the sixteen-mile trip to Berlin.

NO LUXURIES

Although there are no luxuries for the men in the Village, everything possible has been done to make their visit enjoyable and to help them to do their best. A running track and athletic field, duplicates of those in the stadium are in use at all hours.

Should the baseball fans give the St. Louis Cardinals the 1936 National League pennant by one game or less over Chicago's Cubs, Charles Grimm probably would go down in the frayed record books as the "Good Time Charlie" who gave away the flag.

The Cub pilot made the sportsmanlike gesture yesterday of allowing Dizzy Dean to remain in the first game of the important Cub-Cardinals series after the pitcher was about to be chased out by umpires for fighting Tex Carleton.

Grimm talked the umpires into letting Dizzy stay, and the Red Bird star proved his gratitude by hand-cuffing the Cubs, 7 to 3, dropping them to second place.

The chances are that the Cards, who drove Louie Warneke to cover with a four-run barrage in the fourth inning to break up a close game, would have won without the great Dizzy. If that game alone separates the two teams at the finish, however, Grimm undoubtedly will be accused of being too tender-hearted.

ENGAGE IN SCUFFLE

Stung by the quips flung at him by Carleton, who celebrated an off day by doing a lot of shouting, Dizzy suddenly left the pitching mound in the first inning and raced toward the Cub dugout.

The fiery Carleton leaped out, and they clinched and scuffled until players separated them. To the amazement of 30,000 fans, Dizzy resumed the mound, and it was explained that Grimm had pleaded successfully against his expulsion.

Brooklyn snapped the New York Giants' seven-game winning streak, 6 to 5. The defeat dropped the Giants four and a half games behind the Cardinals.

New York's Yankees absorbed one of their nearest beatings of the year yesterday as Washington pounded three pitchers for eighteen hits and a 13 to 4 victory. The defeat trimmed the Yankee lead over Cleveland's idle Indians to eleven and a half games, with forty-eight to play.

The Boston Bees handed Philadelphia their eighth straight setback 9 to 7. Other teams were idle.

SALMONBELLES WIN

New Westminster, Aug. 11.—New Westminster Salmonbellies yesterday evening defeated the league-leading Richmond Farmers, 17 to 12, to tie their fellow townsmen, Adanac, in third position.

Bill Dickey is a tall and flat-footed left-handed hitter who meets the ball squarely and is likely to hit any type of pitch.

George Selkirk, a swinging hitter, takes a longer stride than the other and consequently is easier to fool. The Canadian-born outfielder wearing Babe Ruth's big No. 3 is a courageous athlete. Very fast, he beats out infield hits and it is difficult to throw him out on an extra base hit.

With Myril Hoag out for the year, Jake Powell will see more duty than a Roy Johnson due to his superiority in the field.

Tony Lazzeri is a place hitter of rare ability. The best hit and run man in the league, the veteran from the coast is a bear at moving team-mates along. He also swats a long ball.

London Bishop In New York
New York, Aug. 11.—The Lord Bishop of London, the Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram, stopped off here yesterday on his way to a fishing holiday in Canada to view the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

"Wonderful, wonderful," he remarked, as he wandered up and down the vaulted ceilings. "What a lot of thought you have given to this." He recalled that he had preached in the cathedral ten years ago, before it was completed.

In reply to questions on the state of Europe, the bishop said: "There is danger of war, but I cannot believe it will come. I know of no one who really wants war."

He urged close co-operation between the United States and Great Britain as possibly the most powerful force for preventing war.

The bishop, now seventy-eight, who played with and against Ben With Moody in doubles tennis during his last visit, losing both matches, is still proud of his athletic accomplishments. He played golf and salmon fishing during his weeks in Canada.

SEEK HIT-RUN AUTO DRIVER

Police Search Ships For Man Who Escaped After Fatal Mishap to Victorian

Associated Press
Seattle, Aug. 11.—Miss Margaret Michaels, thirty-six-year-old clerk and owner of the automobile which plunged down a business district hill and fatally injured Mrs. Catherine Galloway, Victoria, B.C., Sunday night, was to be taken again today on a tour of ships in the harbor in an effort to identify the driver of her machine.

She was at liberty on $5,000 coroner's bond. Canadian Press

Seattle, Aug. 11.—Miss Michaels told authorities yesterday a stranger was driving the car when it side-swiped another machine and swerved onto the walk, striking down the fifty-seven-year-old Victoria woman as she walked with her husband. Mr. Galloway was not hurt.

The woman said the driver, who had offered to park her car for her, jumped from the machine and ran away after the accident. Her story was corroborated by eye-witnesses.

The driver, Miss Michaels thought, was a sailor although he was not in uniform. Accompanied by officers she went to a coast guard vessel and a merchant vessel and viewed men lined up before her. She was unable to identify the driver. She said she did not believe the man had been drinking.

DUCK SEASON TO BE SHORTER

Federal Regulations Will Override Provincial Objections in B.C.

Efforts of Attorney-General Sloan and the provincial game department to avoid the application of stringent new federal game regulations on migratory birds to British Columbia have been unavailing and, as a result, hunters of ducks, geese, coot, brant and Wilson snipe will have their season seriously curtailed and bag limits reduced.

This became known today as the province prepared to issue its yearly regulations on game birds. In the past these have covered migratory birds, which are under Dominion jurisdiction, and have been authorized jointly by the provincial and Dominion game authorities.

This year, however, provincial regulations will deal only with non-migratory birds such as pheasants, mallards and quail. The federal government will handle the non-migratory bird situation itself, it was explained.

The new federal regulations were drafted under a treaty with the United States designed to protect game birds. In the east, especially, game officials have experts and, with bird shooting has been commercialized to a great extent and now that serious depletion is faced a frantic effort is being made to save them.

British Columbia, which has comparatively few hunters, is its great size, is being made to conform with the new regulations along with the other provinces. According to Ottawa reports the duck season will be from September 15 to November 15. Last year it was from October 19 to January 31. Game experts say the best duck shooting here is late in the year, but by that time they will be out of season under the new dates. Live decoys are also banned.

SOVIET-JAPAN THREAT SEEN

Dr. T. Z. Koo Not Confident For Continued Peace in Pacific

Fear for the continued peace of the Pacific is expressed by Dr. T. Z. Koo, vice-chairman of the World Student Christian Movement and officer of the Institute of Pacific Relations, who is in Victoria at present on his way to the institute's biennial conference to be held in Yosemite Park on August 15.

"I feel Japan is rather apprehensive of the threat of Russia in the Far East, especially with the establishment of an air base at Vladivostok, within easy reach of the islands. "If the opportunity to eliminate that danger comes with Russia getting involved in Europe, I am afraid Japan will take it."

"Also, if Japan pursues its present policy of pressing into North China, a military clash is inevitable."

CHINESE DEVELOPMENT
Dr. Koo recently returned from spending four months in his native China, and he is optimistic over what he saw there.

"I was very gratified to sense internal developments towards political unity and reconstruction. For the first time since the revolution of 1911 China has a degree of political unity that really covers the whole country."

"Reconstruction work in the areas of communications and economic rehabilitation of rural areas is beginning to show effects in binding the country together and in easing suffering which have been very real."

"If we are not bothered with international troubles with Japan we face a very hopeful period."

"But Japan may upset the whole thing," he said.

Mrs. Baring arrived in the United States from England last Christmas. Since that time she has covered almost all the country, and is now starting on a visit to Canada.

Traveling everywhere by car, she comes and goes as she pleases, and stays just as long as she likes in the places that please her.

Mrs. Baring plans to visit Vancouver Island extensively before leaving for Vancouver and the Canadian Rockies. After that she will go through the United States to the east. She does not expect to be back in England until next Christmas.

With a long list of senior golfers, a large number of members of Dr. Toner's Pacific Coast tour, and heavy independent registrations, the Empress Hotel was today feeling the full force of this year's increase in tourists. At 11 o'clock, when the public rooms of the hotel are usually almost deserted, there was hardly a vacant chair in the rotunda of the hotel this morning, and the desk clerks were being kept continually on the run.

Wardele and daughter, Portland.

The mayor explained it was a tentative figure given by Mr. Bishop when he had considered moving from one building to the other.

In addition to the other charges, it would cost $800 to install and take down stalls in the Industrial Building if it were vacated, Alderman T. W. Hawkins said.

The motion to provide the sum of $1,000 provisionally was put and carried before Alderman Hawkins, in reply to a suggestion from Alderman Okell, said the film company planned to use their studio as a fair attraction during the exhibition.

Many Register On Health Plan

Eighty Per Cent of Firms Already Have Returns in to Insurance Commission

Roughly 12,000 employers of labor in British Columbia have submitted registration forms back to the Health Insurance Commission so far, Alton Peebles, chairman, said this morning.

This amounts to approximately an 80 per cent return so far and others are coming back at the rate of 150 per day, Mr. Peebles added.

The commission sent out 17,000 forms all told but some firms have gone out of business since the list was originally compiled and about 15,000 are considered as valid.

"We have had fine co-operation and most of the forms give us full information," Mr. Peebles said. "We expect the registration will be completed shortly."

Levies of 2 per cent on employees and 1 per cent on employers will not start before December, the commission has stated.

MOVE TO AID FILM GROUP
City Prepared to Assist in Renovating Automobile Building at Fair

The City Council at its meeting yesterday evening took action to assist the Central Films Limited to maintain its uninterrupted occupancy of the Industrial Building at the Willows exhibition ground.

Under existing arrangements between the British Columbia Agricultural Association and the motion picture interests, the studio in the Industrial Building should be dismantled for a month, including the weeks before and after the provincial fair, from September 12 to 19.

The city's aid came in the form of $1,000 allocated for the repair and renovation of another building to house exhibits which would otherwise be placed in the Industrial Building. The sum was promised by the city provisionally on the ability of the British Columbia Agricultural Association to provide an equal amount and the film company furnishing the remainder required to put the alternative building in order. The film company's obligation was tentatively set at $2,000 for that work.

VALUE TO CITY
Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, explained the object of the move by the city to assist the moving picture interests to hold their present premises, in spite of the agreement, in view of their value to the city.

Alderman Archie Willis asked why the city should put up the $1,000 when the Agricultural Association already had a reserve fund of $9,000.

The work would cost more than $1,000, and would be done on a city-owned building, Alderman Brown said. He added the Agricultural Association required a certain amount of capital to carry on.

The guarantee from Mr. Bishop that the Central Films are going to stay there," Alderman Willis asked.

"No, not at present," Mayor Leeming replied. The Central Films, he said, was not of benefit to the Agricultural Association so much as to the city. The city expected Mr. Bishop to spend the equivalent of the renovation of the old building of the sum he would have spent in moving from one building to the other, as under his agreement, the mayor added.

NO BOOTH LEASES
"What about the leases on stalls in the Industrial Building?" Alderman Willis asked.

"There are none," he answered.

Alderman Stanley Okell expressed the opinion the move was one to encourage the Central Films to stay in the city.

"Who estimate is the $2,000 for moving?" Alderman Ed. Williams asked.

The mayor explained it was a tentative figure given by Mr. Bishop when he had considered moving from one building to the other.

In addition to the other charges, it would cost $800 to install and take down stalls in the Industrial Building if it were vacated, Alderman T. W. Hawkins said.

The motion to provide the sum of $1,000 provisionally was put and carried before Alderman Hawkins, in reply to a suggestion from Alderman Okell, said the film company planned to use their studio as a fair attraction during the exhibition.

NEW SURVEY OF RELIEF CASES

Fresh Registration in B.C. to Be Carried Out Next Month

Co-operating with the National Unemployment Commission in its survey of unemployment throughout Canada, the provincial government will carry out a re-registration of relief rolls in September, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, said yesterday. Applicants for relief will be required to fill out questionnaires giving information sought by the federal authorities. The survey will be carried out much along the lines adopted by the province last year, in which each applicant for relief must state what jobs he has held, what he is fitted for, when he was last employed, and other details of this sort. The information secured from these questionnaires is designed to give authorities the background on which to map out relief projects. An exhaust fan in the attic of a house can be used to draw out the hot air, so that cooler air from the lower rooms flows in, thus cooling the house at night.

TELLS GYROS OF PALESTINE

Dr. T. W. A. Gray Describes Land of Bible and Struggle

"Through the ages there have been more people killed in Palestine than in any other country of its size," said Dr. T. W. A. Gray in discussing the struggle of Jew and Arab in a talk on "Changing Palestine" before the Gyro Club yesterday. Dr. Gray, who was at Haifa for some time, described the racial and religious struggle in this little strip of land only 160 miles long, and seventy miles wide. There were three languages—English, Arabic and Hebrew.

The population was approximately 30 per cent Jewish, 10 per cent Christian and 60 per cent Arabic. Opposed to the great ritual and ceremony of the Eastern Orthodox church one of the larger, Christian groups in Palestine was the simplicity of faith of the Mohammedan whose mosques were not churches in the accepted sense of the word but merely meeting places, as the whole earth was their church.

Dr. Gray described the country as rocky except for the narrow fertile strips along the coast and in the valley of the Jordan. There were few trees and the disappearance was explained as being due to militarists and goats.

The two seaports were Haifa and Jaffa. Just outside Jaffa was the all modern city of Tel Aviv which was just as if a mid-western city had been dumped down into the middle of Palestine.

Before the war the country was backward. There was a soap factory but nothing else in the way of industry. There were no roads and Jerusalem was a "torpid little Turkish town."

Now there were railways and a good system of arterial highways. The population of Jerusalem was

DR. L. E. FULLER IS DROWNED

Associated Press Chicago, Aug. 11.—The death by drowning in northwestern Canada of Dr. Leslie Elmer Fuller, fifty, Garrett Biblical Institute and Northwestern University professor, was told today in a telegram received by his wife, Mrs. Mabel Fuller, of suburban Evanston.

The telegram said, "Dad drowned in rapids. Rushing home by airplane." It was signed by Dr. Fuller's son, John, twenty-one, and Charles, eighteen, who with two other youths, had accompanied him on a canoe trip to the wilds north of the Arctic Circle.

Dr. Fuller led the party from Chicago June 9. Born in Los Angeles, he was ordained a Methodist Episcopal minister in 1912 and held a Pacific Beach, Cal., pastorate before joining the Garrett Institute as a professor of the Old Testament in 1913.

Capitol to Star Clever Comedian

W. C. Fields is back in the noise and color of the carnival, hawking patent medicines and running a small shell game on the side, in "Poppy," which will open at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow. The picture marks his return to the screen after a serious illness of eight months. "Poppy" deals with the adventures of Fields, as a veteran, "med man," and Poppy, the young girl who appears as his daughter.

The two manage to set up a concession in the carnival which has moved into a small middle-western town. Fields is going strong when he hears of an estate in the town which is waiting the appearance of its missing owner, a young girl.

Without telling the girl, Rochelle Hudson, he manages a scheme to get her recognized as the heiress. Meanwhile, Rochelle has fallen in love with Richard Cromwell, the son of the town's mayor.

Poppy has just taken possession of the estate when the whole scheme is revealed and her Cinderella dream seems shattered. When the plot closes, however, Poppy has settled down in the village, engaged to Cromwell, and the professor, so accustomed to carnival life that he cannot leave it, has hit the road in search of new shows.

The second feature, "Forgotten Faces," a powerful emotional drama, stars Herbert Marshall and Gertrude Michael.

ATLAS THEATRE

Forty concert dancers rehearsed eight hours per day for seven weeks perfecting the Spanish dancing ensembles featured in Pioneer Pictures' Technicolor musical romance, "Dancing Pirate," now at the Atlas Theatre. Much of the brilliance and gaiety of old Spanish California fiestas is captured in striking colors in the new film, the tones of which were designed by Robert Edmonds Jones.

OAK BAY THEATRE

Romance, drama, gaiety and music mingle in a unique blend of entertainment in the M-G-M picture "Escapade," which shows at the Oak Bay Theatre today and tomorrow. There is also a matinee Wednesday afternoon.

With William Powell heading the cast in "Escapade" as a whimsical artist whose past feats as a Lothario land him in trouble, the picture introduces new personalities and new ideas.

PRODUCTION IN FINAL STAGES

Expect to Complete "Why Let 'em Live?" This Week; Lyle Talbot to Leave Soon

Getting into the final stages of the production of "Why Let 'em Live?" gangster picture, which is the company's most ambitious product to date, Central Films Limited was shooting interior scenes at the Willows studio yesterday.

The sets in use represent a book-maker's office and the office of an inspector of the provincial police. The picture should be finished in the last days of this week. Kenneth J. Bishop, producer, said this morning.

Lyle Talbot, the leading man, is expected to leave for Hollywood on Wednesday. After that the company will have about three days to spend in mopping up various minor sequences, making scenery inserts, and taking care of any possible retakes.

Marc Lawrence, the heavy of the story, left for Hollywood on Saturday. Mr. Talbot, Lucille Lund, who plays the gangster's moll, and Eddie Acuff comedian, are the only Hollywood actors remaining here.

Reports from the laboratory superintendent of Columbia Pictures Incorporated in Hollywood say the photography of this picture is excellent, and reports from the cutting department add that the movie shows signs of being the best yet made in Victoria.

Peiping, Aug. 11.—Two Chinese drug smugglers were executed yesterday before a large crowd as a public object lesson.

The smugglers were compelled to witness the burning of 500 pounds of confiscated Japanese-made narcotic pills.

Then they were shot.

STRONG DRAMA AT DOMINION

"Crime and Punishment" Has E. Arnold, P. Lorre and Marian Marsh in Cast

The film version of "Crime and Punishment," the powerful novel written in the nineteenth century by Fyodor Dostoevsky, is now at the Dominion Theatre.

Produced by Columbia, the film has Edward Arnold as its star and Peter Lorre, heading the supporting cast. Marian Marsh, Tala Birelli, Elizabeth Riedon, Douglas Dumbrille, Robert Allen, Gene Lockhart and Mrs. Patrick Campbell are also included in the roster of players.

The celebrated story has to do with one Roderick Raskolnikov, a brilliant student who graduates with highest honors from the university only to find himself and the world at large at loggerheads. Poor, ragged, enraged at his inability to care for his mother and sister, he murders a miserable old hag of a pawnbroker and robs her. Also shown as the second feature is "And So They Were Married," starring Melvyn Douglas and Mary Astor.

PLAZA THEATRE

Pat O'Brien celebrated his birthday while making scenes for "Ceiling Zero," the Comopolitan production which comes to the Plaza Theatre today as a First National release.

One particular gift, which was the envy of other members of the cast was twenty-five volumes of the magazine, "The Theatre," covering the years from 1901 to 1925. The volumes contain as comprehensive a history of the Broadway stage for those years as could be found anywhere. The gift was from his wife.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

"The Bitter Tea of General Yen," a Columbia picture starring Barbara Stanwyck is at the Columbia Theatre today. The story is a screen version of the popular novel of the same name by Grace Zaring Stone. Nils Asther heads the cast opposite Miss Stanwyck. Walter Connolly, veteran stage star recently recruited for pictures; Gavin Gordon, Toshia Mori, Helen Jerome Eddy and Lucien Littlefield are other prominent names in important roles.

Heavy Trading With Golds Lower Erratic Trading RAILS LOWER Irregular Close On AT TORONTO On Winnipeg Mart With Close Lower

Associated Press
New York, Aug. 11.—The stock market blew alternately hot and cold throughout the session today, and finished with the gain and loss score about even.

The last closed irregular transactions approximated 1,150,000 shares. American Water Works and Electric softened a bit following resumption of dividend payments. Traders "sold on the news," brokers said.

Favorable dividend actions by a number of companies tended to bear out predictions in financial circles that the uptrend of corporate earnings and the tax levy on undistributed income would loosen company purse strings.

Foreign exchanges were steady and narrow. Cotton improved moderately. Bonds drifted irregularly downward. Rail loans were heavy. Italian obligations brightened the foreign list with an aggressive rally.

Corn closed 1/2 to one cent a bushel higher. Wheat had net losses of 2 1/2 to 3 cents.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Rallies in corn prices today carried the market up to an overnight rise of 2 1/2 c a bushel, surpassing early top figures.

The renewed upturn of corn led, however, to a fresh outburst of profit-taking sales. At the last, corn values were in some cases off more than 1 1/2 c from the top.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I feel pretty sure that I am in love with a girl, but how can I be positive about it? She is everything I have hoped and dreamed of—sweet, religious, easy to get along with, no bad habits, and, above all else, I am sure she is pure and innocent. We have many things in common, like the same pleasures, sports, etc., but she uses bad grammar and has poor table manners, doesn't know how to hold a fork, etc. Also, she has poor health and seems to have very little pep and energy. I am not in a position to marry her now. Want to go through college. It will be at least four years before I will be ready to marry. If we waited, do you think I might see some other girl I might like better during that time? Do you think I am foolish to risk spoiling my happiness, or would it be better to take the chance and marry on $15 a week?

N. E. M.

Answer—Of all the inconsistent letters I have ever read yours takes the prize. You are not in a position to marry her, yet you are not even certain that you love her. Then you want to know if you should marry her. Considering the subject from every possible angle I should say no, a thousand times no. You shouldn't marry the girl on her own account nor on your own, because such a marriage would be bound to bring misery on you both.

Of course, you are not really in love with the girl, or else you would not be uncertain of your own feelings. Love is one of the things that every man overestimates. He supposes undervalues it. Very often he mistakes a passing fancy for a deathless passion, or propinquity gets in its deadly work. Because some girl with whom he is thrown enters and amuses him and strokes his further right way he thinks he cannot live without her, only to find out after he marries her that he can't stand it to live with her.

But if he is really in love with a girl he never for a minute imagines that he isn't. A man in love is like a sick man. He always feels that he has a fatal case. So as long as you have any suspicions whatever about the state of your heart, give yourself the benefit of the doubt.

If the girl's grammar and table manners get on your nerves before marriage, they will be an obsession with you afterward. You'll write whenever she speaks or eats, and, worse still, you will be ashamed of her. Love can stand many things, but not ridicule.

If a woman falls into ill health after she is married, that is her misfortune and if her husband is anything of a man he will cheer her the more tenderly because of her sufferings, but a man needs to be very brave and courageous and generous to marry a sickly woman and let himself in for all the sacrifices that will entail. Not only will most that he makes go for doctors, nurses, operations and sanatoriums, but sick people are not gay companions and they nearly all get selfish and exacting and peevish.

But if the girl had every charm and virtue in the world you are in no position to marry her. You couldn't keep a canary on your income, to say nothing of a family. So have enough sense to call the whole thing off.

Leave the girl free to marry some man who can take care of her, and go about your education with a mind untroubled by love problems. You will see all sorts of girls during the four years that you are at college and it is dollars to doughnuts you will prefer one of them to this young woman.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have always lived in a good house and had every comfort. I have a good father and mother, sisters and brothers, but I have never had a home because all of us go our separate ways and we have nothing in common. My father goes one way, my mother goes another way, all of us children go ours. It breaks my heart, because I want a home in which everybody shares each other's sadness and gladness and where there is love. I am seventeen and I think I shall get married soon just to have a home. Parents don't understand what they are making their children go through when all they give them is a house to live in.

A READER.

Answer—Evidently the right of children to self-expression and to live their own lives that is so greatly exploited nowadays doesn't make a hit with you, my poor child. Nor do I think it does with many girls and boys. So far as my observation goes most youngsters want something settled and tangible in their lives and some authority and order. They want parents who will take the responsibility of guiding them and on whose wisdom they can depend.

And they want somebody to keep the home fires burning; a mother who is always on the job, who can always be found when a fellow needs her most, not one who is traveling to the far ends of the earth, or who is off lecturing or campaigning, or out to 2 to 3 o'clock at right to parties.

I know many women who boast that they are modern in their ideas and that in their families each goes his or her separate way, with no questions asked. Husband goes one way, the wife another. Each of the children have their individual groups and amusements and nobody ever knows what the other is doing or thinking.

I think that such liberty is not only dangerous, but that it robs family life of all of its meaning and sweetness. For all affection is founded on close personal intimacy and association. Those who are most congenial to us are those who do the same things that we do, who know the same people and play the same games, who have the same memories. And so the fathers and mothers who never really enter into their children's lives and the brothers and sisters who never even get acquainted with each other can have none of that deep abiding love for each other, that loyalty and devotion that is one of the most beautiful and sustaining things that life can give us.

If your parents have not made a home for you, it is very sad, but do not make a bad matter worse by marrying for a home until you are old enough and wise enough to pick out a man who will help you build one. It is not a thing you can do alone.

DOROTHY DIX.

Uncle Wiggily and the Gentleman Bug

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Sometimes children do things that are unkind without really knowing that they are unkind. That's the way it is with the animal children who live in the woods. And this story is about two squirrel boys who were teasing a little lady bug and how they were taught a lesson.

The squirrel boys were named Nip and Nap and they were cousins to Johnnie and Billie Bushytail. Uncle Wiggily, while walking through the woods one day, heard them talking and though they didn't know he was there because he was behind a bush.

"Let's scare him," Nip was saying.

"How?" Nap wanted to know.

"Don't you know how to scare lady bugs? I'll show you. You tell them your house is on fire. I'll show you."

Uncle Wiggily moved up closer to see what was going on. The two squirrels were standing in front of a lady bug who was resting on a fallen leaf. And suddenly Nip exclaimed: "Lady bug, lady bug, fly away home—your house is on fire and your children will burn!"

"Oh, that's terrible!" squeaked "Oh, dear me! How terrible!"

"See?" Nip cried. "See how scared she is?"

Now Nap said: "See how scared she is?"

So Nap repeated: "Lady bug, lady bug, fly away home—your house is on fire and your children will burn!"

CRUEL SQUIRRELS

"Now that isn't nice of them at all," Uncle Wiggily murmured. "They are just the same! And I'd like to teach them a lesson!"

By this time the poor lady bug was in an awful state. She hopped up and down and was so excited she almost forgot how to fly.

"I've got to do something quick," Uncle Wiggily thought. "That little lady bug is very frightened. I wonder how I can help her. Just then he felt a stinging blow right on the end of his nose. It was so unexpected that Mr. Wiggily nearly fell over backward.

"Oh, pardon me!" a voice exclaimed. "I'm so sorry! Did I hurt you?"

"It was a large fly that bumped up and down against Uncle Wiggily's nose. And suddenly Nap exclaimed: "Lady bug, lady bug, fly away home—your house is on fire and your children will burn!"

"Oh, that's terrible!" squeaked "Oh, dear me! How terrible!"

"See?" Nip cried. "See how scared she is?"

Now Nap said: "See how scared she is?"

So Nap repeated: "Lady bug, lady bug, fly away home—your house is on fire and your children will burn!"
